New York Press Strike Is Averted

NEW YORK, March 7 (AP)—A threatened strike against six major New York City newspapers was averted today when AFL photoengravers voted to accept a $3.75 weekly wage package.

The vote was 209 to 76.

Dennis M. Burke, president of the union local, recommended acceptance of the proposal but told the membership:

"It's a bitter pill that no one hates to swallow more than I do."

The photoengravers had rejected a similar $3.75 offer made by the publishers last Nov. 28 and 10 days thereafter disrupted normal newspaper publication in the city. The workers had asked a $7.50 increase.

Subsequently the issue was submitted to arbitration and the mediating panel recently approved the $3.75 proposal.

Truman Praises Stevenson Blast At Republicans

NEW YORK, March 7 (AP)—Former President Harry Truman said today he would not comment personally "on private fights in the Republican party."

But he said former presidential candidate Adlai Stevenson, in his Miami speech last night, "stated the Democratic attitude as clearly as could be done."

Stevenson charged that a "group of political plunger" had persuaded President Eisenhower to accept the tactics of Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.) as "the best Republican formula for political success."

Adlai's Speech "Wonderful"

Here to appear on a television program before going to Boston for a luncheon tomorrow, Truman said he did not hear Stevenson's speech.

But after reading the speech today, he described it as "wonderful."

"He covered the ground . . . I endorse Mr. Stevenson's speech entirely," Truman said, adding: "He hit it right on the nose. He has a way of expressing himself that's in a class by itself."

Earlier Truman had declined comment on the controversy between McCarthy and Army Secretary Stevens, to which Stevenson devoted a considerable part of his speech.

Explains Point 4 Program

Truman, surrounded by aides and detectives, talked with reporters on the way to and from his appearance on the NBC television program, "Excursion."

On the show he explained to several students how his "Point Four" program for aid to underdeveloped areas of the world came about, how it operated and what a satisfying career Point Four work would be for a young person.

"But it's a career of hard work and hardship," he warned, "and it's a career that will be its own reward."

Ground Party Reaches Wreckage Of Plane

NICE, France, March 7 (AP)—A French army ground party dodged six avalanches stirred up by helicopters today to reach the wreckage of a U. S. Air Force C47 which crashed a mile and a half up in the Alps last Thursday.

They brought out the bodies of four of the 20 victims, but the other 16 bodies were feared to have plunged 1,800 feet down an icy ravine entombed in the plane's shattered fuselage.

Salary Increase Won By Striking Teachers

BAYONNE, N. J., March 7 (AP)—Bayonne's 560 striking school teachers have got their pay raise and will go back to their classrooms tomorrow.

A $200 annual salary increase for the teachers, as well as a $650 hike in maximum salaries, was announced last night after a four-hour meeting between the school board and representatives of the teachers.

The teachers walked off their jobs last Wednesday after the noon recess when the City Board of Estimate cut the proposed raise out of the education budget.

Disagrees With McCarthy's Idea

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—Sen. Mundt (R-SD) said today he believes any Communists called into the Army should be so scattered that they would be unable to form cells and attempt to recruit other soldiers.

In an interview, Mundt disagreed with a recent suggestion by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) that some sort of special labor projects be set up for Red draftees.

Mundt is a member of the Senate Investigations subcommittee, headed by McCarthy, which is looking into the Army's handling of Communists and those who refuse to say whether they are Communists or not.

Stevens Denies He'll Resign

The inquiry has led to the recent spectacular clash between McCarthy and Secretary of the Army Stevens over the senator's questioning of Gen. Ralph Zwicker—a clash that brought a "fair play" call from President Eisenhower and a new blast from McCarthy against "coddling" of Communists.

Stevens, who denied yesterday he plans to resign, has agreed to testify before the subcommittee on the Army's handling of Communists. No date has been set for his appearance.

Mundt said he and other subcommittee members are disturbed by what he called an apparent lack of uniform policy for dealing with Reds called into service.

He said the subcommittee is not trying to tell the Army what its policy should be but is looking to Stevens to establish a policy which will safeguard national security.

Would Not Exempt Leds

Mundt said he personally feels Communists should not be exempted from Army service but should be denied commissions, kept out of sensitive jobs and in general scattered so they can't get together and form units.

Later, in a Gannett News Service broadcast, Mundt said he thought both sides learned something from the Stevens-McCarthy row.

"I think the Army officers are ready to be more cooperative when they do appear," he said, "and I am pretty well convinced that there will not be a recurrence of . . . the unfortunate language which was used by the chairman of the committee (McCarthy) in addressing Gen. Zwicker when he was a reluctant and non-cooperative witness before the committee."

Dean Will Testify In Schwable Case

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—Maj. Gen. William F. Dean has been called to testify tomorrow in the case of a Marine flyer who made a false germ warfare "confession" for his Communist captors in Korea.

Dean, the highest ranking American officer to be captured by the Reds, was called at the request of Col. Frank Schwable. A Marine court of inquiry is nearing the end of hearings to decide whether charges should be filed against Schwable for "confessing" under pressure.

A Medal of Honor winner, Dean was captured early in the fighting. He has said he once tried to kill himself for fear he might give away military information to the Communists.

Fiery Guatemala Minister Denies Charge By Dulles

CARACAS, Venezuela, March 7 (AP)—Guatemala today denied Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' charge that she opposes any anti-Communist declaration by the Inter-American Conference.

Guatemala's fiery foreign minister, Guillermo Toriello, also denied Dulles' accusation that Guatemala had used the conference to defame the United States. Such a charge would only be valid, he declared, "if the government of the United States were identified with the United Fruit Co. and other monopolies."

Toriello charged Dulles had twisted his statements before the conference and put Guatemala in an unfair position. He said in a statement his actual remarks were:

"The Guatemalan delegation will categorically oppose any resolution or declaration that under the pretext of curbing communism violates the fundamental principles of democracy, advocates violation of the rights of man or strikes at the principle of non-intervention" in a state's internal affairs.

Dulles is slated to argue for a U. S. proposal to meet the threat of Red infiltration of the Americas before the conference's Judicial - Political Committee tomorrow.

Dulles' Assertion Rejected

Toriello rejected Dulles' assertion that Guatemala's stand on "intervention of international communism" will be tested when the item comes up on the agenda. He said "the affirmation of the sovereign position of a state cannot be subjected to any test . . ."

In his opening speech to the conference last week Dulles told the delegates "there is not a single nation in this hemisphere which has not been penetrated by the apparatus of international communism acting under orders from Moscow."

To curb this penetration the United States has submitted a plan calling for joint consultative action in the event the Communists take over in any American republic. In effect it would treat Communist infiltration as a foreign invasion.

Will H. Hays, Former Film "Czar," Dies

Former GOP Chairman Left Harding Cabinet To Clean Up Movies

SULLIVAN, Ind., March 7 (AP)—Will H. Hays, 74, who left President Harding's Cabinet to clean up movie morals in the roaring 20s, died of a heart condition at his Sullivan home at noon today.

The one-time Republican national chairman and postmaster general, who served 24 years as movie "czar," had returned ill from his New York residence last October.

At his bedside were his wife, Jessie, and his son from a previous marriage, Will H. Hays, Jr., a professor of English at Wabash College.

Through his years in politics and in the movie industry, he considered this Western Indiana county seat town his home and voted here.

Three Successful Careers

He also kept apartments in New York and Hollywood and a ranch near Los Angeles. He had law offices in Sullivan, New York and Indianapolis.

Will Hays had three successful careers — in the law, politics, and as the so-called Czar of the motion picture industry.

It was as the $150,000-a-year president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America that his strong personality left its widest imprint on the public.

He took that job in 1922 after a law career in Indiana and served as Republican national chairman before he was 40.

Reorganized GOP

As GOP chairman, his reorganization of a badly-split Republican party was widely credited with Harding's landslide victory in 1920 following the famous "front porch" campaign. Harding made Hays his postmaster general.

Hays became president of the newly formed motion picture association at a time when scandals in Hollywood had brought sharp public reaction.

He retired in 1945, with his "Hays Office" the recognized arbiter of good taste in an industry which had accepted the principle of self-regulation. Only recently, there have been signs of rebellion against the code in Hollywood.

USIA Religious Director Named

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—The U. S. Information Agency announced today the creation of a new post, chief of religious policy, and the appointment of a Quaker from Indiana to fill it.

Dr. D. Elton Trueblood, author and professor of philosophy at Earlham College, Richmond, Ind., accepted the post and said he would devote himself to helping overcome what he called a Communist initiative in the East-West war of ideas.

Trueblood, 53, was appointed by Theodore C. Streibert, director of the agency, to advise on overseas broadcasts and other information programs. Streibert said the appointment reflects "the importance this agency is now giving to our moral and spiritual heritage," and added:

"This is much more than a matter of an occasional religious broadcast or news story. It is a matter of undergirding our whole set of convictions, the fundamental beliefs and values which we share with the millions of men and women of the free world."

AFL And CIO Rap Excise Tax Cut Proposals As Business "Bounty"

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—Top AFL and CIO leaders today urged Congress to reject House committee tax cut proposals as a "bounty" to business. They urged instead a higher personal income tax exemption.

Both AFL President George Meany and CIO President Walter Reuther said tax relief to consumers would buoy purchasing power and "encourage consumption of piled up inventories."

Both union leaders hit hardest at two features of a "technical revision" bill drafted by the House Ways and Means Committee. One would reduce taxes on dividends; the other would allow a higher rate of depreciation for tax purposes on new machinery and equipment.

Proposal Draws Support

The depreciation proposal drew strong support today from the Council of State Chambers of Commerce.

Approval by Congress of the measure, the council said, would generate "a wave of orders" for new machinery and equipment and stimulate the start of new business ventures. This, it said, would mean rehiring of laid-off workers, new jobs, greater opportunity for steady work, and more and better things at lower costs for consumers, by tending to keep factories modernized.

The flexible depreciation plan and the reduction in dividend taxes are included in an 800-page general revision of the nation's tax laws drawn up by the House committee. Republican leaders have announced the complicated measure will be brought to the House floor on March 17.

Bigger Deduction First Year

Under the bill, tax deductions allowed for the billions of dollars business puts annually into new plants and equipment would be much bigger the first years of use.

Meany discounted the possible effect of the proposal on new investment.

"The fact is," he said, "the volume of new investment has never been higher than under the tax rate now in effect. Therefore this provision must be considered an indefensible bounty from the public treasury to business."

Four Lose Lives In Baltimore Fire

BALTIMORE, March 7 (AP)—Three young children and an elderly woman died in a fire which swept their home here early today, and four other persons were burned, two of them critically.

Firemen said the blaze broke out about 7:30 a.m., apparently while all the occupants were still asleep. It was discovered by two men delivering papers along the route who sounded an alarm.

Killed in the blaze were Mrs. Martha Mosley, 74, John Richard Hines Jr., 8, Gregory Hines, 6, and Lamont Hines, 2.

U. Of Md. Develops Flock Of Chickens That Can't Fly

COLLEGE PARK, Md., March 7 (AP)—Now the University of Maryland has developed a flock of chickens that can barely get off the ground.

What a boon for the neighbor's garden! All you have to have is an 18-inch fence.

Dr. C. S. Shaffner, who smokes a cornucopia pipe but does most of his farming in the laboratories at the university's college of agriculture, is mostly responsible for these chickens that can't fly.

He has about 1,000 of them now, another 1,000 are in prospect shortly, and it's something he's been working on for seven years.

His object was to breed a strain of chickens that didn't have the 22 feathers on each wing. He already was convinced the feathers were good for nothing but flying. He wasn't thinking so much of low fences as he was the extra work and expensive machinery needed to pluck the flight feathers in dressing a chicken for market.

British Seek Suez Talks

CAIRO, Egypt, March 7 (AP)—Britain has made informal approaches to Egypt for reopening the Suez talks. Maj. Amin Shaker, aide-de-camp to Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser, said tonight.

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—A U. S. Army ordnance officer has resigned in a huff, charging "Pentagon politics and snafu" blocked adoption of two new weapons he designed and developed.

Loren C. Cook of Vallejo, Calif., who was a warrant officer stationed in Germany, claimed his light sub-machinegun and his automatic rifle were not given a fair chance by the Army.

"Although the Army calmly brushed them aside," Cook said in an interview, "a Belgian firm gave me a fair contract to sign for their immediate manufacture."

He declined to make public the name of the firm until he can sign the contract as a civilian.

In Washington, reachable ordnance officers said they recalled tests had been made of Cook's light sub-machine gun. A spokesman said it was found to be a good weapon, but was not developed because no current need for such a weapon existed.

Had Held Up Story

(As to the legality of Cook's selling the weapon to a Belgian firm, the spokesman said that would depend on a number of factors still to be determined, among them whether he had developed the gun on his own or government time, and whether he held clear patent rights to it.)

The 33-year-old ordnance expert and inventor sailed recently from Bremerhaven for the United States. He asked that his story be withheld "until I am safely out of uniform."

"Otherwise," he said, "The Army would crucify me."

Cook cabled today: "Let the story go."

"Even though I was kicked around," he asserted here before leaving, "both guns are still available to the Army—free for the asking."

"If the Army had given my guns a fair chance I would not have quit in disgust."

Gun Tested At Aberdeen

He said that when his .30 caliber light sub-machinegun was tested a year ago at the Aberdeen, Md., proving ground "it was not given a fair shake."

"The only reason it was tested at all," Cook said, "was that I gave out a story to the press (March 3, 1953) that it had been brushed off."

Cook said the light sub-machinegun—which he said could be mass-produced for $10 each—was pitted against the M-3 (greasgun), the Army's standard counterpart, in an accuracy test. Cook claimed his would shoot faster, farther and straighter.

"They fired the M-3 from a machine bench rest. They wouldn't let me fire my own gun. The man who fired it held it in his hands without the advantage of a bench rest and fired it in the general direction of the target. Of course the M-3 made a better score. The Army had the gall to call that a fair accuracy test," Cook said.

McCarthy Says Stevenson Tries To Stir Up GOP Fight

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 7 (AP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) said tonight that Adlai E. Stevenson's speech before the Southeastern Democratic conference was "an obvious attempt to create a real fight within the Republican party."

"It was a very clever political talk designed to cloud the issues," he said in an interview after a day of fishing off nearby Key Biscayne.

The Wisconsin senator said he wanted "equal time on national radio and television networks to reply to Stevenson." Networks donated the time for Stevenson's speech.

"The speech reminded me of a story," McCarthy said. "My brother and I went to my father's barn a long time ago to clean it out. We disagreed how it should be done. If Stevenson had been there he would have kept trying not to clean it out at all."

"What the Republicans are trying to do is to clean up the Democratic mess. We don't always agree on how the job should be done. But we all agree it must be done."

Stevenson in his speech last night said the Republican party was "divided against itself, half McCarthy and half Eisenhower."

"That just isn't so," said McCarthy. "I campaigned for Eisenhower in 1952 and I'd campaign for him again today."

"Not that I think he's perfect," he continued. "But the President is right 95 per cent of the time, which is a very big average."

"I feel that the Democrats really never tried to do any barn cleaning," he said, referring back to his earlier statement.

McCarthy said he thought what Stevenson was so "stirred up about" was the fact that Eisenhower "does not object to exposure of Communists in the Army or elsewhere."

He also kept apartments in New York and Hollywood and a ranch near Los Angeles. He had law offices in Sullivan, New York and Indianapolis.

Will Hays had three successful careers—in the law, politics, and as the so-called Czar of the motion picture industry.

It was as the $150,000-a-year president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America that his strong personality left its widest imprint on the public.

He took that job in 1922 after a law career in Indiana and served as Republican national chairman before he was 40.

Reorganized GOP

As GOP chairman, his reorganization of a badly-split Republican party was widely credited with Harding's landslide victory in 1920 following the famous "front porch" campaign. Harding made Hays his postmaster general.

Hays became president of the newly formed motion picture association at a time when scandals in Hollywood had brought sharp public reaction.

He retired in 1945, with his "Hays Office" the recognized arbiter of good taste in an industry which had accepted the principle of self-regulation. Only recently, there have been signs of rebellion against the code in Hollywood.

Dulles' Assertion Rejected

Toriello rejected Dulles' assertion that Guatemala's stand on "intervention of international communism" will be tested when the item comes up on the agenda. He said "the affirmation of the sovereign position of a state cannot be subjected to any test . . ."

In his opening speech to the conference last week Dulles told the delegates "there is not a single nation in this hemisphere which has not been penetrated by the apparatus of international communism acting under orders from Moscow."

To curb this penetration the United States has submitted a plan calling for joint consultative action in the event the Communists take over in any American republic. In effect it would treat Communist infiltration as a foreign invasion.

Finns Go To Polls

HELSINKI, Finland, March 7 (AP)—Finns trudged to the polls through driving snowstorms today to begin a two-day election which climaxes a year of political crisis in this tough, tiny neighbor of the Soviet Union.

"This is much more than a matter of an occasional religious broadcast or news story. It is a matter of undergirding our whole set of convictions, the fundamental beliefs and values which we share with the millions of men and women of the free world."

French Forces Repel
Vietnam Assaults

HANOI, Indochina, March 7 (AP)—Communist-led Vietminh troops, roaming about the vital French Union defense bastion of the Red River Delta in strength estimated at 60,000, launched a wide series of attacks today against thinly manned French-Vietnamese militia posts northwest, east and south-east of Hanoi.

French army headquarters reported most of the assaults were beaten off with the Vietminh losing 50 killed and 65 captured.

The rebels, attacking in company strength, easily captured and then destroyed a small Vietnamese manned post near Sontay, 35 miles northwest of Hanoi.

AFL And CIO Rap Excise Tax Cut Proposals As Business "Bounty"

28-Year Search Over

Happiness comes to John Nesmith in Long Beach, Calif., as he looks at photo of his son and family, ending a search of 28 years. Nesmith and his first wife parted when their son, James, was only 3 months old. A detective agency located the son and family in Russell, Pa. "That's my boy," said the father. "He's got my ears and my chin and that's my dad's Scotch nose. And that sweet wife and those kids—I'm a grandfather twice over and I didn't even know it."

"Pentagon Politics" Hit Inventor Quits Army, Saying New Weapons Given Brushoff

FRANKFURT, Germany, March 7 (AP)—A U. S. Army ordnance officer has resigned in a huff, charging "Pentagon politics and snafu" blocked adoption of two new weapons he designed and developed.

Loren C. Cook of Vallejo, Calif., who was a warrant officer stationed in Germany, claimed his light sub-machinegun and his automatic rifle were not given a fair chance by the Army.

"Although the Army calmly brushed them aside," Cook said in an interview, "a Belgian firm gave me a fat contract to sign for their immediate manufacture."

He declined to make public the name of the firm until he can sign the contract as a civilian.

In Washington, reachable ordnance officers said they recalled tests had been made of Cook's light sub-machinegun. A spokesman said it was found to be a good weapon, but was not developed because no current need for such a weapon existed.

Had Held Up Story

(As to the legality of Cook's selling the weapon to a Belgian firm, the spokesman said that would depend on a number of factors still to be determined, among them whether he had developed the gun on his own or government time, and whether he held clear patent rights to it.)

The 33-year-old ordnance expert and inventor sailed recently from Bremerhaven for the United States. He asked that his story be withheld "until I am safely out of uniform."

"Otherwise," he said, "The Army would crucify me."

Cook cabled today: "Let the story go."

"Even though I was kicked around," he asserted here before leaving, "both guns are still available to the Army—free for the asking."

"If the Army had given my guns a fair chance I would not have quit in disgust."

Gun Tested At Aberdeen

He said that when his .30 caliber light sub-machinegun was tested a year ago at the Aberdeen, Md., proving ground "it was not given a fair shake."

"The only reason it was tested at all," Cook said, "was that I gave out a story to the press (March 3, 1953) that it had been brushed off."

Cook said the light sub-machinegun—which he said could be mass-produced for $10 each—was pitted against the M-3 (greasgun), the Army's standard counterpart, in an accuracy test. Cook claimed his would shoot faster, farther and straighter.

"They fired the M-3 from a machine bench rest. They wouldn't let me fire my own gun. The man who fired it held it in his hands without the advantage of a bench rest and fired it in the general direction of the target. Of course the M-3 made a better score. The Army had the gall to call that a fair accuracy test," Cook said.

CAIRO, Egypt, March 7 (AP)—Britain has made informal approaches to Egypt for reopening the Suez talks. Maj. Amin Shaker, aide-de-camp to Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser, said tonight.

Ask Income Tax Exemption Boost

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—Top AFL and CIO leaders today urged Congress to reject House committee tax cut proposals as a "bounty" to business. They urged instead a higher personal income tax exemption.

Both AFL President George Meany and CIO President Walter Reuther said tax relief to consumers would buoy purchasing power and "encourage consumption of piled up inventories."

Both union leaders hit hardest at two features of a "technical revision" bill drafted by the House Ways and Means Committee. One would reduce taxes on dividends; the other would allow a higher rate of depreciation for tax purposes on new machinery and equipment.

Proposal Draws Support

The depreciation proposal drew strong support today from the Council of State Chambers of Commerce.

Approval by Congress of the measure, the council said, would generate "a wave of orders" for new machinery and equipment and stimulate the start of new business venture. This, it said, would mean rehiring of laid-off workers, new jobs, greater opportunity for steady work, and more and better things at lower costs for consumers, by tending to keep factories modernized.

The flexible depreciation plan and the reduction in dividend taxes are included in an 800-page general revision of the nation's tax laws drawn up by the House committee. Republican leaders have announced the complicated measure will be brought to the House floor on March 17.

Bigger Deduction First Year

Under the bill, tax deductions allowed for the billions of dollars business puts annually into new plants and equipment would be much bigger the first years of use.

Meany discounted the possible effect of the proposal on new investment.

"The fact is," he said, "the volume of new investment has never been higher than under the tax rate now in effect. Therefore this provision must be considered an indefensible bounty from the public treasury to business."

Four Lose Lives
In Baltimore Fire

BALTIMORE, March 7 (AP)—Three young children and an elderly woman died in a fire which swept their home here early today, and four other persons were burned, two of them critically.

Firemen said the blaze broke out about 7:30 a.m., apparently while all the occupants were still asleep. It was discovered by two men delivering papers along the route who sounded an alarm.

Killed in the blaze were Mrs. Martha Mosley, 74, John Richard Hines Jr., 8, Gregory Hines, 6, and Lamont Hines, 2.

U. Of Md. Develops Flock
Of Chickens That Can't Fly

COLLEGE PARK, Md., March 7 (AP)—Now the University of Maryland has developed a flock of chickens that can barely get off the ground.

What a boon for the neighbor's garden! All you have to have is an 18-inch fence.

Dr. C. S. Shaffner, who smokes a corn-cob pipe but does most of his farming in the laboratories at the university's college of agriculture, is mostly responsible for these chickens that can't fly.

He has about 1,000 of them now, and another 1,000 are in prospect shortly, and it's something he's been working on for seven years.

His object was to breed a strain of chickens that didn't have the 22 primary and secondary flight feathers on each wing. He already was convinced the feathers were good for nothing but flying. He wasn't thinking so much of low fences as he was the extra work and expensive machinery needed to pluck the flight feathers in dressing a chicken for market.

Dr. Shaffner had a knife poised ready to kill a rooster in a laboratory project one day in 1949 when a student assistant almost screamed at him: "That chicken doesn't have any wing feathers."

Shaffner mated the rooster with four hens. He hatched 50 eggs from the hens and got one chick without wing feathers.

All the first 50 chicks were mated among themselves, their offspring back-crossed with normal New Hampshire chickens. One of each 10 new chicks came minus wing feathers this time. The process continued into 1953, with the non-flyers building up to 60 per cent of the hatch. Dr. Shaffner also had worked some white leghorn stock into the crossing. It is just a matter of time, he says, until he gets a pure strain of white, non-flying meat chickens.

The experiment hasn't gone far enough to make non-flying chickens available for commercial production. Dr. Shaffner hasn't yet figured out whether the economics of the thing will ever be favorable on a commercial scale.

Party's Four Top Leaders Elude Police

Six Caught In Trap
Sprung After Seizure
Of Nationalist Chief

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, March 7 (AP)—The Puerto Rican government, in its second swift move in 24 hours to round up fanatical political groups here, arrested six local Communist leaders today.

But the big four of the party were still at large.

Police said the arrests were made without violence, in contrast to the blazing gun battle which accompanied yesterday's seizure of Nationalist chieftain, Pedro Albizu Campos and five of his aides.

Three more Nationalists—Meliton Muniz, Estanislao Lugo and Elpidio Jimenez—were arrested today, bringing to 39 the total number of Nationalists seized. Two more are being sought.

Atty. Gen. Jose Trias told a news conference the Communists were arrested for violation of a local law against subversive acts, and belonging to a party which advocates subversive acts.

Shooting Figures In Probe

Asked if the roundup had any connection with the attack by four Nationalists in the U. S. House of Representatives last Monday in which four congressmen were wounded, Trias said, "That angle is included in the investigation."

He gave the same answer when asked to comment on possible ties between the Communists and Nationalists.

But he said the Communists advocate subversive acts "just like the Nationalists."

The arrests began at 6 a.m., at the same hour as the roundup of Nationalists began yesterday.

Bail was fixed at $25,000 each. The big four of the Communist party still at large, for whom arrest warrants were issued, were: Juan Santos Rivera, party president; Juan Saez Corales, a local labor union organizer; Cesar Andru Iglesias, former party president; and Pablo Garcia Rodriguez, Harvard-graduated lawyer.

Two Women Arrested

Santos Rivera, about 50, was reported in Moscow for a year or two several years ago.

Trias said six Communists, including two women, were arrested today, and not seven as reported earlier by unofficial sources.

The Puerto Rican Communist party is small. Authorities estimate its membership at less than 100. But it has been linked before with the much bigger Nationalist group. Both have favored complete independence and accuse the United States of holding Puerto Rico under forced intervention.

The Communist group has denied any connection with the Washington shootings. Red leaders issued statements to that effect in both island papers. When the Nationalists revolted in 1950 the Communists disclaimed any part in the incident. But there were reports the Reds helped furnish arms to the rioters.

NATO's Strength Tripled Since '51

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther said today that NATO has more than tripled its military strength since 1951 and is "no longer a pushover" for Soviet military might. But "We need more strength," he said.

The NATO shield still isn't strong enough to completely stop an all-out Red offensive, Gruenther, commander of Allied forces in Europe, told a Communion breakfast of the John Carroll Society, a Roman Catholic group.

Nor, he said, is NATO yet strong enough to "deter the Soviets from launching an accidental war."

Gruenther urged that the American people be thoroughly informed of NATO's mission. He said the cold war would be won by "the side with the stoutest heart—the one in which the people understand, believe in and support to the best of their ability."

The biggest danger to NATO's success, Gruenther said, is the tendency of the peoples of the 15-member nations to relax. He said the Russians "realize this and are using every propaganda device to get us to relax our vigilance, and to reduce NATO's strength."

Four Persons Killed And Five Injured In Three-Car Crash

Two Burned To Death In Traffic Accident Near Hopewell, Md.

HOPWELL, Md., March 7 (P)—Four persons were killed and five others injured early today in a three-car collision about two miles north of here at the intersection of State Routes 413 and 667.

Two of the victims burned to death. They were identified by State Police Cpl. T. H. Foxwell as Laura Devins, 39, of Crisfield, and Jacob Tull, 46, of Lawsonsia.

Also killed were Norris Jones, 29, and Paul Henry Nelson, 42, both of Crisfield. Jones died of a crushed chest and Nelson of a cranial hemorrhage.

Under treatment for injuries at McCready Memorial Hospital in Crisfield were:

Garfield Jackson, 46, Crisfield, third degree burns of face and left hand; Margaret Jones (no age given) of Crisfield, severe lacerations of the face and possible internal injuries; Johnny Jacobs (no age given) of Baltimore, a fractured left ankle and lacerations of the left knee, and Janet Jacobs (no age given) of Crisfield, contusions of the left hip and chest.

Leroy Canby of Crisfield was treated for leg cuts and dismissed. All were Negroes except Nelson, Cpl. Foxwell said.

Foxwell said Nelson, driving south on Route 413, apparently had stopped his car at an angle on the highway while attempting to make a left turn onto Route 667. He was believed to be alone.

Nelson, according to Foxwell, was out of his car and on the highway when another car, driven by Garfield Jackson and also traveling south, approached. Unable to stop, Jackson hit Nelson before his car careened on down the highway, struck a power pole and burst into flames.

Foxwell said Jackson apparently crawled from his car. The Devins woman and Tull riding with him, perished in the flames.

As Jackson attempted to slow down to keep from hitting Nelson, another car, also traveling south, smashed into the rear of Jackson's car, skidded sideways and crashed into the side of Nelson's car, Foxwell said.

The third auto, with four passengers, was driven by Norris Jones, a shipyard worker in Baltimore.

Women Speed More Than Men, Radar Reveals

PIKESVILLE, Md., March 7 (P)—Sorry, gals, but a respected scientific gadget presents evidence that—up to a point—you drive autos faster than men.

Maryland state police, after a series of radar checks on speedy drivers the last six months, conclude:

"One out of four women exceeds the speed limit as compared to one out of eight men."

And, although radar didn't determine this, Maj. William H. Weber, Maryland state police field commander, says women drivers "always" have a reason for speeding. Example:

One, after being stopped on the highway by a trooper, said she had been fishing and was hurrying home to fix her husband's breakfast.

Others say their dinner is burning or they are late for a meeting. But men?

They usually tell arresting officers they didn't realize they were going too fast or else offer no explanation.

Police Seeking Clues To Girl's Knife-Slayer

PHOENIXVILLE, Pa., March 7 (P)—Police sought clues today that would lead them to the knife-slayer of pretty 22-year-old secretary Marguerite Keota.

The fully clad body of the girl, who had been missing since early Wednesday, was found yesterday in a water filled pit on an abandoned school property in adjoining Schuylkill Twp.

Chester County Coroner Cooper T. Bishop said internal bleeding from three stab wounds caused the girl's death. Her body was coated with two inches of ice. Her watch had stopped at 1:25, presumably the time when, on same day, she had been thrown in the pit.

Miss Keota was last seen at 12:30 a.m. Wednesday. She and a girl companion separated about two blocks from Miss Keota's home after returning from two dances.

NEW "H" TRIGGER — Jean Thibaud, director of the Nuclear Research Institute at the University of Lyon, France, has discovered a method for exploding a H-bomb without use of uranium, according to a Paris dispatch. He declined to personally comment on the report. Invention of a "trigger" device to set off the hydrogen bomb was a major problem that faced American scientists in developing a successful H-bomb.

Marbury To Run For State Court Of Appeals Seat

(By The Associated Press)

Rival Democratic candidates for governor pointed today to Howard County support as evidence of Southern Maryland backing, and a contest became apparent for a Court of Appeals seat with Associate Judge Charles C. Marbury's announcement that he will run for the state's highest court.

Marbury, of Upper Marlboro in the Seventh Judicial Circuit, said he would file formally today in Annapolis for the seat formerly held by retired Chief Justice Ogile Marbury, a relative.

That seat is now held by Judge Hall Hammond, former attorney general named to the court by Gov. McKeldin in October, 1952. Hammond already has filed his candidacy for election to a 15-year term.

In the campaign for the gubernatorial nomination, H.C. Byrd gained a running mate in State Sen. C. Ferdinand Sybert who announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for attorney general.

Legislators Ask Ike Share Plans For Halting Reds

WASHINGTON, March 7 (P)—Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.) and Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-N.Y.) called on President Eisenhower today to take Congress into his confidence on plans to meet any new Communist military threat.

This, they said, might save the President future difficulties and would prepare Congress for its role in any swiftly-developing crisis.

Cole and Mansfield were among several legislators of both parties who said in separate interviews Congress has not been told how the administration is planning to meet foreseeable crises throughout the world.

Mansfield, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said "the administration should keep responsible congressional committees informed of what it intends to do well ahead of any emergency."

"Otherwise, we will remain in the dark until the crisis develops and Congress is called upon to back up the administration," he said.

Two Burn To Death When Car Overturns

WASHINGTON, March 7 (P)—An elderly man and woman, their bodies burned beyond recognition, were killed today near the Pentagon when their auto overturned and caught fire after striking a parked car.

Police tentatively identified the victims as Robert J. Caynor, 63, and his sister, Minnie Caynor, 74, both of Washington.

Witnesses said the two died within a matter of minutes after gasoline leaking from the overturned car ignited.

Baby Dies In Fire Near Martinsburg

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., March 7 (P)—A three-month-old baby died early today in a fire which destroyed the two-story frame home of Mr. and Mrs. Victor E. Barrett, about four miles east of here.

Both parents were hospitalized with serious burns.

Neighbors helped the Barretts escape through an upstairs window but were not able to reach the baby, Steven, asleep in a baby carriage in another section of the flaming room.

A defective stove was believed to have started the fire.

John Newberry, Store Chain Founder, Dies

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., March 7 (P)—John J. Newberry, 76, founder and board chairman of a huge national chain of variety stores, died last night at his home after a long illness.

The company bearing his name operates 475 stores in 45 states. A native of Sunbury, Pa., Newberry first went to work for the Pennsylvania Railroad as a clerk, later joined a department store in Wilkes-Barre.

Republicans Set To Start Making Good On Pledges

WASHINGTON, March 7 (P)—Republican House leader Halleck of Indiana said today Republicans in Congress now are ready to start making good on GOP promises of lower taxes and fewer federal controls.

With the first big Republican backed tax reduction bill reaching the House floor next Wednesday, it appeared GOP House leaders were indeed prepared to try high-balling the administration's legislative program through the House at top speed.

This week will see the House acting on a bill slashing excise, or "nuisance," taxes by nearly a billion dollars. The bill also cancels scheduled cuts in liquor, cigarette and certain other taxes.

Next week comes a huge tax revision measure, overhauling the entire federal tax structure to the tune of nearly 1½ billion dollars in immediate tax reductions.

In a statement today, Halleck said the coming week's program will make legislative history.

"This week should demonstrate to the American people in a very convincing way that the Eisenhower administration and the Republican Congress are now moving in high gear to fulfill the promises that have been made," he said, adding:

"We promised progress on all fronts — we promised a lessening of federal control and a return to states of the rightful powers seized from them."

Red Encyclopedia Has 'Low-Down' In Kalifornia, Kolorado, Gollyvud

MOSCOW, March 7 (P)—Some of the early Russian settlers and ex-ploers who went to Kalifornia wouldn't know the place now. It is the base for supplying American forces for the aggressive war in Korea and it spawned "Gollyvud," a hotbed of reactionary cinema propaganda.

And in Kolorado, the rich mining is increasingly subordinated to the aims of the military. Her land has suffered catastrophic erosion because of "barbarous methods of conducting agriculture."

These are the things Soviet citizens can learn about Kalifornia and Kolorado in the latest volume — No. 22 — of the Great Soviet Encyclopedia of 1954, recently off the presses here.

The two states come under K. Gollyvud—Hollywood—has its own niche under G in a volume which came out earlier, but comes in the two-page item about Kalifornia.

"These Russian settlers," it says here in the Soviet encyclopedia, "played a great part in the exploration and settlement of Kalifornia and also in the development of its economy."

But then it gave birth to that suburb of Los Angeles, Gollyvud, which is a blemish on the film industry. The United States stole Kalifornia from the Mexicans. The state now treats its Indians shabbily, letting them live on reservations with starvation diets. It lets its farmers go bankrupt.

The encyclopedia says 27 per cent of the state's farmers had an annual income of less than $1,000 and are on the verge of poverty. It adds that 40 per cent of California's farms are mortgaged to banks.

PHOENIXVILLE, Pa., March 7 (P)—Police sought clues today that would lead them to the knife-slayer of pretty 22-year-old secretary Margaret Keota.

The fully clad body of the girl, who had been missing since early Wednesday, was found yesterday in a water filled pit on an abandoned school property adjoining Schuylkill Twp.

Chester County Coroner Cooper T. Bishop said internal bleeding from three stab wounds caused the girl's death. Her body was coated with two inches of ice. Her watch had stopped at 1:25, presumably the time when, on same day, she had been thrown in the pit.

Miss Keota was last seen at 12:30 a.m. Wednesday. She and a girl companion separated about two blocks from Miss Keota's home after returning from two dances.

NEW "H" TRIGGER — Jean Thibaud, director of the Nuclear Research Institute at the University of Lyon, France, has discovered a method for exploding a H-bomb without use of uranium, according to a Paris dispatch. He declined to personally comment on the report. Invention of a "trigger" device to set off the hydrogen bomb was a major problem that faced American scientists in developing a successful H-bomb.

Legislators Ask Ike Share Plans For Halting Reds

WASHINGTON, March 7 (P)—Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.) and Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-N.Y.) called on President Eisenhower today to take Congress into his confidence on plans to meet any new Communist military threat.

This, they said, might save the President future difficulties and would prepare Congress for its role in any swiftly-developing crisis.

Cole and Mansfield were among several legislators of both parties who said in separate interviews Congress has not been told how the administration is planning to meet foreseeable crises throughout the world.

Mansfield, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said "the administration should keep responsible congressional committees informed of what it intends to do well ahead of any emergency."

"Otherwise, we will remain in the dark until the crisis develops and Congress is called upon to back up the administration," he said.

Two Burn To Death When Car Overturns

WASHINGTON, March 7 (P)—An elderly man and woman, their bodies burned beyond recognition, were killed today near the Pentagon when their auto overturned and caught fire after striking a parked car.

Police tentatively identified the victims as Robert J. Caynor, 63, and his sister, Minnie Caynor, 74, both of Washington.

Witnesses said the two died within a matter of minutes after gasoline leaking from the overturned car ignited.

Baby Dies In Fire Near Martinsburg

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., March 7 (P)—A three-month-old baby died early today in a fire which destroyed the two-story frame home of Mr. and Mrs. Victor E. Barrett, about four miles east of here.

Both parents were hospitalized with serious burns. Neighbors helped the Barretts escape through an upstairs window but were not able to reach the baby, Steven, asleep in a baby carriage in another section of the flaming room.

A defective stove was believed to have started the fire.

Marbury To Run For State Court Of Appeals Seat

(By The Associated Press)

Rival Democratic candidates for governor pointed today to Howard County support as evidence of Southern Maryland backing, and a contest became apparent for a Court of Appeals seat with Associate Judge Charles C. Marbury's announcement that he will run for the state's highest court.

Marbury, of Upper Marlboro in the Seventh Judicial Circuit, said he would file formally today in Annapolis for the seat formerly held by retired Chief Justice Ogden Marbury, a relative.

That seat is now held by Judge Hall Hammond, former attorney general named to the court by Gov. McKeldin in October, 1952. Hammond already has filed his candidacy for election to a 15-year term.

In the campaign for the gubernatorial nomination, H.C. Byrd gained a running mate in State Sen. C. Ferdinand Sybert who announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for attorney general.

Sybert's announcement was not exactly a surprise. A resident of Ellicott City, the 54-year-old lawyer is rounding out a four-year term as Howard County's senator and was speaker of the House of Delegates during his previous four years in the General Assembly.

His candidacy for the attorney generalship was seen as a means of attracting Southern Maryland support for the ticket headed by Byrd.

"It is my opinion that the most qualified candidate for governor is Dr. H. C. Byrd and I endorse his candidacy," Sybert said.

Byrd returned the compliment and said he in his opinion Sybert "possesses all the necessary qualifications for an outstanding attorney general."

Meanwhile, George P. Mahoney, apparently with the same Southern Maryland votes in mind, drew an endorsement from another prominent Howard County political leader, Raymond L. Pickett, register of wills for the last 23 years.

Pickett said current sentiment among Howard County Democrats is stronger now for Mahoney than it has ever been in previous elections.

He said he is supporting the Baltimore County contractor "because of his amazing achievement in the last general election when he was accorded the greatest number of votes ever attained by a Democratic candidate" in Maryland. That was when Mahoney lost the election for U.S. senator to J. Glenn Beall.

Austrian Avalanche Death Toll Hits 150

INNSBRUCK, Austria, March 7 (P)—Avalanches roaring down the Austrian Alps killed nine persons, injured several others and left four missing over the weekend.

In the Tyrolean Alps the white death claimed five victims — all of them German tourists. Two of them were killed while returning from a ski tour to the Mittelberg-Ferner Mountain on Saturday.

Today's death toll brought to 150 the number of victims of avalanches in Austria this year.

John Newberry, Store Chain Founder, Dies

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., March 7 (P)—John J. Newberry, 76, founder and board chairman of a huge national chain of variety stores, died last night at his home after a long illness.

The company bearing his name operates 475 stores in 45 states. A native of Sunbury, Pa., Newberry first went to work for the Pennsylvania Railroad as a clerk, later joined a department store in Wilkes-Barre.

Republicans Set To Start Making Good On Pledges

WASHINGTON, March 7 (P)—Republican House leader Halleck of Indiana said today Republicans in Congress now are ready to start making good on GOP promises of lower taxes and fewer federal controls.

With the first big Republican backed tax reduction bill reaching the House floor next Wednesday, it appeared GOP House leaders were indeed prepared to try high-balling the administration's legislative program through the House at top speed.

This week will see the House acting on a bill slashing excise, or "nuisance," taxes by nearly a billion dollars. The bill also cancels scheduled cuts in liquor, cigarette and certain other taxes.

Next week comes a huge tax revision measure, overhauling the entire federal tax structure to the tune of nearly 1½ billion dollars in immediate tax reductions.

In a statement today, Halleck said the coming week's program will make legislative history.

"This week should demonstrate to the American people in a very convincing way that the Eisenhower administration and the Republican Congress are now moving in high gear to fulfill the promises that have been made," he said, adding:

"We promised progress on all fronts — we promised a lessening of federal control and a return to states of the rightful powers seized from them."

Red Encyclopedia Has 'Low-Down' In California, Colorado, Gollyvud

MOSCOW, March 7 (P)—Some of the early Russian settlers and explorers who went to California wouldn't know the place now. The encyclopedia says, "San Francisco was a base for America's 'aggressive war' in Korea and it spawned 'Gollyvud,' a hotbed of reactionary cinema propaganda."

And in Colorado, the rich mining is increasingly subordinated to the aims of the military. Her land has suffered catastrophic erosion because of "barbarous methods of conducting agriculture."

These are the things Soviet citizens can learn about California and Colorado in the latest volume—No. 22—of the Great Soviet Encyclopedia of 1954, recently off the presses here.

The two states come under K. Gollyvud—Hollywood—has its own niche under G in a volume which came out earlier, but comes in for more unfavorable mention in the two-page item about California.

"These Russian settlers," it says here in the Soviet encyclopedia, "played a great part in the exploration and settlement of California and also in the development of its economy."

But then it gave birth to that suburb of Los Angeles, Gollyvud, which is a blemish on the film industry. The United States stole California from the Mexicans. The state now treats its Indians shabbily, letting them live on reservations with starvation diets. It lets its farmers go bankrupt.

The encyclopedia says 27 per cent of the state's farmers had an annual income of less than $1,000 and are on the verge of poverty. It adds that 40 per cent of California's farms are mortgaged to banks.

Brune Gets State's Highest Judicial Post

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 7 (P)—Frederick W. Brune, 58-year-old Baltimore attorney and former president of the State Bar Assn., will become chief judge of Maryland's Court of Appeals in ceremonies here Thursday.

He will succeed Simon E. Sobeloff, who resigned to become solicitor general of the United States.

Gov. McKeldin's announcement of the ceremonies yesterday was the first formal notice that Brune had been named to the state's highest judicial office. The appointment had been expected, however.

Brune has been active in the American Bar Assn. in addition to having headed state and city bar associations. He has served as a member of the Commission on General Corporation Laws of Maryland, on the Charter Revision Commission in Baltimore, and on the City Service Commission.

Local Soldier Is Decorated For Heroism In Korea War

A local soldier who volunteered to evacuate a wounded comrade after he had been hit by exploding ammunition in Korea near Chongang last June 23 was recently decorated for bravery with the Bronze Star Medal with "V" device.

He is Sgt. Donald F. Hott, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Hott, Route 3, Valley Road. He attended Fort Hill High School and was employed at the Buchanan Lumber Company prior to entering the service in October of 1952.

The order for the decoration of Sgt. Hott (then a corporal) is a Presidential one and is for heroic achievement against an armed enemy of the United States.

The citation accompanying the award of the medal states:

"Sgt. Hott, a member of an infantry company, is cited for heroism in action June 23 near Chongang, Korea. An Allied security patrol issued an urgent call for aid when one of its members had been mortally wounded by exploding ammunition and another badly injured.

"Sgt. Hott immediately volunteered for the perilous mission of evacuating his wounded comrade and made his way over treacherous terrain and through a driving rain and wind storm to the beleaguered unit. A number of enemy troops were suspected of being in the area and there was also danger of more ammunition exploding.

"Nevertheless, Sgt. Hott moved through the hazards of the stricken patrol, thinking only of his wounded comrade. The outstanding heroism and determination displayed by Sgt. Hott on this occasion were instrumental in the successful evacuation of the injured soldier and reflects great credit upon himself and the military services."

Dr. Firey Heads Optometrists

Dr. William S. Firey, this city, was elected president of the Western Maryland Optometric Association at a meeting recently in Hagerstown.

Other officers chosen were Dr. Charles Bickle, Hagerstown, vice president; Dr. Ethyl Dantzic, this city, secretary; and Dr. Harold Ashby, Oakland, treasurer.

Dr. Ralph Hybarger, Hagerstown, reported on the American Optometric Congress held at Rochester, N. Y.

The association discussed its program for Save Your Vision Week which is being sponsored this week by the Maryland Optometric Association and its affiliates. This is the 28th year the week has been observed.

Dr. Firey noted that two out of three adult Americans wear glasses and the proportion is rising. He attributed the increase to two factors — the increased demand for good vision in modern living and greater consciousness of vision and vision care.

He was employed at Amcelle Plant of Celanese Corporation, for several years. Bantz has been a member of both Local 26, United Rubber Workers Union, and Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America.

Harold Brooks Candidate For Legislature

Harold D. Brooks, announced himself Saturday as a candidate for the House of Delegates subject to the Republican primary next June. Brooks, who is well known in this county as a constable at large and as an associate with his father, Homer C. Brooks, in the Tri State Detective Agency, gave the following statement:

"In announcing my candidacy for the House of Delegates, I do so with the realization that public office is a sacred trust. There is no doubt some aspirants to office who look upon an election as a form of popularity contest, or an opportunity to gain a position where influence may be swayed for personal ambition and aggrandizement. Patently, such motives for seeking public office are indefensible and undermine the foundation of good government. I believe that public office should be sought because it presents an opportunity for public service. An opportunity to become an organic part of present day government. The House of Delegates presents what may be termed, the first rung on the political ladder. There are many great political offices in this state, filled by experienced and able men. Membership in the House of Delegates has served as an apprenticeship for most of them. None-the-less, it is a very important job, as the candidates who fill such positions formulate the laws which govern the people of this state. They should have a knowledge of the people at the "grass roots" level. They should be able to assume the role of a neighbor representing the interests of his neighbors for the common good. I feel that the House of Delegates is an office which should be filled by a young man. As young men can tackle the many issues with vigor, industry and enthusiasm.

"Having been born in this County 34 years ago and reared and educated among its people and in its schools, I feel that I am not alien to the needs and desires of the splendid people of this county. I am a graduate of Allegheny High School and attended Catherman's Business School and have endeavored to take an active part in the civic life of this County.

"I have been employed in accounting work with the C. and P. Railroad and covered this area as a salesman for the Tri State Paper Company. I feel that the experience that I have gained in the past three years which I have spent as a constable at large for Allegheny County, has given me a first-hand opportunity to learn much about the judicial machinery which is a component part of our governmental system and if elected I pledge myself to devote all my time in studying the many other ramifications of the science of government. I trust that the voters will give me this opportunity to serve them and if nominated and elected I will dedicate my energies and integrity toward justifying their confidence."

Brooks resides in LaVale with his wife, the former Phyllis E. Dayton, of Westernport and is the father of two children.

He is a member of Centre Street Methodist Church, and is active in fraternal circles being a member of F.O.E. Eagles No. 245, Elks Lodge No. 63, Ohl Lodge No. 131 AF & AM, Salem Chapter No. 18 Royal Arch Masons, Antioch Commander No. 6 Knight Templar, Ali Ghan Shrine, South End Business Men's Association and is a Past Vice President of the Optimist Club.

Big Savage Refractories Opposes Gas Rate Hike

A hearing in the request of the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company for another rate increase will open Wednesday at 10 a. m. before the Maryland Public Service Commission in Baltimore.

Latest to file a petition to intervene in the gas rate hike case is Big Savage Refractories Corporation at Zihlman, William E. Walsh and W. Earle Cobey are attorneys for the firm.

The corporation is the lone private utility in the Cumberland area to protest the proposed increase sought by C&A.

Last week the Public Service Commission accepted the petition of the Allegheny County Board of Commissioners to intervene in the case with the people's counsel.

Both the Mayor and Council and county government have gone on record opposing the hike. City Solicitor Thomas B. Finan, at request of a citizens' committee, was directed to confer with Gorman E. Getty, attorney for the county commissioners, and determine cost involved in retaining engineering experts to aid in fighting the increase.

Ridgeley's Mayor and Council also agreed to enter an official protest against the proposed C&A increase in gas rates. Other communities which followed suit were: Keyser, Parsons, Davis, Thomas, Hambleton, Hendricks, Kingwood, Buckhannon, Terra Alta, Philippi, Belington and Elkins.

Last April, Allegheny and Garrett County officials agreed here to accept present gas rates as permanent if C&A agreed to forego further increases in its rate schedule.

The gas company received a 22 per cent rate increase last year, and is seeking 16 per cent more now.

Campaign Begins

Victor J. Tambollee Post 1712, Catholic War Veterans, will conduct its annual Cross of Peace emblem sale continuing through March 17, according to James L. King, post commander.

The emblem is a shamrock on which a Celtic cross is superimposed. Proceeds will be used for CWV welfare, hospital service and youth projects.

Bridge Suit To Be Heard March 12

Notice has been received by the Allegheny County Board of Commissioners from the U. S. District Court in Baltimore that the suit brought by the county in connection with damage to a bridge across Everts Creek at the intersection of Mason and Mt. Pleasant Roads will be on the docket March 12.

Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the board, said the case has been continued on two previous occasions and the court has pointed out it will not be continued any longer.

The county sued a truck owner and his insurance company for damages to the structure when the heavily-loaded lumber truck crashed through the bridge more than a year ago. The bridge has been replaced with a modern steel and concrete structure able to carry loads with traverse state highways. The new bridge cost approximately $39,000.

He is Sgt. Donald F. Hott, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Hott, Route 3, Valley Road. He attended Fort Hill High School and was employed at the Buchanan Lumber Company prior to entering the service in October of 1952.

The order for the decoration of Sgt. Hott (then a corporal) is a Presidential one and is for heroic achievement against an armed enemy of the United States.

The citation accompanying the award of the medal states:

Bantz To Seek Co. Treasurer Nomination

William Bantz Sr., 406 Central Avenue, has announced he will be a candidate for county treasurer on the Republican ticket in the June 28 primary election.

Bantz is a native of Bloomington, the son of the late Frank and Molly (Cushwa) Bantz. He attended Beryl, W. Va., School.

The local man was employed at the Luke Mill of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company prior to moving to Cumberland when he went with Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

During the administration of Governor Harry Nice, Bantz served as a clerk in the Cumberland Peoples' Court.

He was employed at Amcelle Plant of Celanese Corporation, for several years. Bantz has been a member of both Local 26, United Rubber Workers Union, and Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America.

For eight and one-half years, Bantz was custodian at the home of Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion.

One of his two sons, T-Sgt. Charles O. Bantz, was killed in North Africa 11 years ago on March 1, 1943, when a Ferry Command transport crashed.

Another son, William O. Bantz, this city, served as a paratrooper during World War II. He was recalled to active duty during the Korean conflict and is currently in the Army Reserve.

Bantz has two daughters, Mrs. Edith Keifer, Cresaptown, and Mrs. Louise Carroll, 405 Arch Street, and five grandchildren.

For the past three years, Bantz has served as an inspector for the Maryland Racing Commission on half-mile tracks.

Harold Brooks Candidate For Legislature

Harold D. Brooks, announced himself Saturday as a candidate for the House of Delegates subject to the Republican primary next June. Brooks, who is well known in this county as a constable at large and as an associate with his father, Homer C. Brooks, in the Tri State Detective Agency, gave the following statement:

"In announcing my candidacy for the House of Delegates, I do so with the realization that public office is a sacred trust. There is no doubt some aspirants to office who look upon an election as a form of popularity contest, or an opportunity to gain a position where influence may be swayed for personal ambition and aggrandizement. Patently, such motives for seeking public office are indefensible and undermine the foundation of good government. I believe that public office should be sought because it presents an opportunity for public service. An opportunity to become an organic part of present day government. The House of Delegates presents what may be termed, the first rung on the political ladder. There are many great political offices in this state, filled by experienced and able men. Membership in the House of Delegates has served as an apprenticeship for most of them. None-the-less, it is a very important job, as the candidates who fill such positions formulate the laws which govern the people of this state. They should have a knowledge of the people at the "grass roots" level. They should be able to assume the role of a neighbor representing the interests of his neighbors for the common good. I feel that the House of Delegates is an office which should be filled by a young man. As young men can tackle the many issues with vigor, industry and enthusiasm.

"Having been born in this County 34 years ago and reared and educated among its people and in its schools, I feel that I am not alien to the needs and desires of the splendid people of this county.

I am a graduate of Allegheny High School and attended Catherman's Business School and have endeavored to take an active part in the civic life of this County.

"I have been employed in accounting work with the C. and P. Railroad and covered this area as a salesman for the Tri State Paper Company. I feel that the experience that I have gained in the past three years which I have spent as a constable at large for Allegheny County, has given me a first-hand opportunity to learn much about the judicial machinery which is a component part of our governmental system and if elected I pledge myself to devote all my time in studying the many other ramifications of the science of government. I trust that the voters will give me this opportunity to serve them and if nominated and elected I will dedicate my energies

Brooks resides in LaVale with his wife, the former Phyllis E. Dayton, of Westernport and is the father of two children.

He is a member of Centre Street Methodist Church, and is active in fraternal circles being a member of F.O.E. Eagles No. 245, Elks Lodge No. 63, Ohrlodge No. 131 AF & AM, Salem Chapter No. 18 Royal Arch Masons, Antioch Commander No. 6 Knight Templar, Ali Ghan Shrine, South End Business Men's Association and is a Past Vice President of the Optimist Club.

Big Savage Refractories Opposes Gas Rate Hike

A hearing in the request of the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company for another rate increase will open Wednesday at 10 a. m. before the Maryland Public Service Commission in Baltimore.

Latest to file a petition to intervene in the gas rate hike case is Big Savage Refractories Corporation at Zihlman. William E. Walsh and W. Earle Cobey are attorneys for the firm.

The corporation is the lone private utility in the Cumberland area to protest the proposed increase sought by C&A.

Last week the Public Service Commission accepted the petition of the Allegheny County Board of Commissioners to intervene in the case with the people's counsel.

Both the Mayor and Council and county government have gone on record opposing the hike. City Solicitor Thomas B. Finan, at request of a citizens' committee, was directed to confer with Gorman E. Getty, attorney for the county commissioners, and determine cost involved in retaining engineering experts to aid in fighting the increase. Ridgeley's Mayor and Council also agreed to enter an official protest against the proposed C&A increase in gas rates. Other communities which followed suit were:

Keyser, Parsons, Davis, Thomas, Hambleton, Hendricks, Kingwood, Buckhannon, Terra Alta, Philippi, Belington and Elkins.

Last April, Allegheny and Garrett County officials agreed here to accept present gas rates as permanent if C&A agreed to forego further increases in its rate schedule.

The gas company received a 22 per cent rate increase last year, and is seeking 16 per cent more now.

Campaign Begins

Victor J. Tambollee Post 1712, Catholic War Veterans, will conduct its annual Cross of Peace emblem sale continuing through March 17, according to James L. King, post commander.

The emblem is a shamrock on which a Celtic cross is superimposed. Proceeds will be used for CWV welfare, hospital service and youth projects.

Bridge Suit To Be Heard March 12

Notice has been received by the Allegheny County Board of Commissioners from the U. S. District Court in Baltimore that the suit brought by the county in connection with damage to a bridge across Evitts Creek at the intersection of Mason and Mt. Pleasant Roads will be on the docket March 12.

Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the board, said the case has been continued on two previous occasions and the court has pointed out it will not be continued any longer.

The county sued a truck owner and his insurance company for damages to the structure when the heavily-loaded lumber truck crashed through the bridge more than a year ago. The bridge has been replaced with a modern steel and concrete structure able to carry loads with traverse state highways. The new bridge cost approximately $39,000.

Eisenhower And McCarthy

Senator McCarthy intends to have his Senate Committee on Government Operations "check closely" on the State Department's decision to strip its security chief, R. W. Scott McLeod, of power to hire and fire personnel. At the same time, President Eisenhower is on record as holding that "the assignment to duty of any administrative officer in any department of government" is the "responsibility of the head of that department, and no one else's whatsoever." Thus a recurrence seems more likely of disputes similar to the issuance of counter-statements by the President and McCarthy on March 3.

General Eisenhower was first publicly queried about his stand on "McCarthyism" at his Abilene, Kan., press conference on June 5, 1952. The questioner referred to a letter which Eisenhower as president of Columbia University had written praising Ambassador-at-Large Jessup. Jessup had been accused by McCarthy of having "an unusual affinity for Communist causes."

At Abilene, General Eisenhower reiterated his unwillingness to "indulge in any kind of personalities under any pretext whatever." Then he said:

"When you are talking about a name that is supposed to mean and to convey to me an idea or a program of action, I shall say this: No one could be more determined than I that any kind of communistic, subversive or pinkish influence be uprooted from responsible places in our government. . . . On the other hand, I believe that can be done with the use under competent leadership of the kind of facility, agency we have now, and I believe it can be done without besmirching the reputation of any innocent man or condemning by loose association or anything else."

Later, in his campaign, at Green Bay and at Milwaukee, Wis., both on October 3, 1952, General Eisenhower urged the re-election of Senator McCarthy. At Green Bay, the General said that the differences between McCarthy and him had "nothing to do with the end result we are seeking," but applied to "method." Congressional investigations would always be "appreciated and welcomed" by him as head of the executive department. At Milwaukee, however, the General emphasized: "The future of this country belongs . . . to men who know that freedom's fight must be forever relentless, uncompromising and fair."

As for McCarthy, on June 14, 1951, the Senator made an attack on General Marshall, part of which alleged that Marshall "unflinchingly opposed" enterprises McCarthy listed as "winning the war in North Africa and . . . our subsequent conquest of Sicily and Italy." Then he added: "In all these attitudes, Eisenhower, who had become commander in chief in North Africa, was Marshall's firm supporter."

At the 1952 Republican convention, McCarthy said that he favored the nomination of General MacArthur but that Senator Taft and General Eisenhower were "outstanding men." In the fight over the Bohlen nomination McCarthy on March 25, 1953 said that he would campaign again for Dwight Eisenhower. But, he added: "When Dwight Eisenhower nominates a man who I think is not suited for appointment, I will fight that nomination with all the power and strength I have."

Further brushes with the White House led to a climax on a nation-wide broadcast by McCarthy on November 24, ostensibly aimed at former President Truman, in which he itemized anti-Communist cases "in which our (Republican administration) batting average is zero."

Experimental

Little demonstrable benefit resulted from last summer's vast anti-polio program, which cost more than $6,500,000 for mass inoculation with the blood derivative gamma globulin, according to findings released by the United States Public Health Service.

The outright statement that gamma globulin inoculations are valueless does not appear in the findings of the 10 experts who did the fact finding job for the health service and have been working since the end of last summer's polio season to evaluate the data. But their findings throw the entire anti-polio crusade back into the experimental stage.

The committee of experts observed that both in the case of the inoculations among children of families where polio had already hit, and gamma globulin was administered on a mass basis, it was a case of locking the door after the horse had been stolen. Painstaking research noted that the data collected in most of the mass inoculation areas was valueless because the shots were given after the polio incidence had passed the epidemic stage.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis plans to go ahead with a gamma globulin program this year three times as intensive as the 1953 effort. The foundation is convinced that a great deal has been learned and that the mass inoculation program should start earlier.

Incidentally, the gamma globulin program this year should not be confused with the tests which will be made with the new polio anti-virus. More than 500,000 youngsters will be inoculated with the new serum in hopes of giving at least one season's immunity to polio.

Testing V-6 Engine

For many years, almost ever since the advent of the V-8 automobile engine, engineers of the various auto companies have been experimenting with V-6 engines, attempting to prepare one for market.

Although these experiments have not been too successful to date, there are signs appearing which indicate that the V-6 engine may indeed become a reality in the near future.

Heavy tooling costs seem to be the greatest drawback to the V-6. Engineers working with these engines have always claimed in the past that it would cost almost as much to make a V-6 as a V-8. Furthermore, they never were able to decrease manufacturing costs or increase gasoline mileage sufficiently on the V-6 to make the production of this engine practicable. Experimentation on the V-6 was revitalized after World War II, however, when emphasis began to be placed on the high compression V-8 engine.

It costs approximately $60,000,000 to take a V-8 engine from the draftsman to the assembly line, so it is easy to see why no one wants to spend that kind of money on an engine that so far has shown no outstanding possibilities.

Nevertheless, it is safe to assume that as soon as the inefficiency factor is overcome and manufacturing costs are lowered, the V-6 engine will be on the market.

Chilblains: Mottled Skin Blotches

A high school girl is upset because, for two winters, the skin of both lower legs has been covered with red blotches. One of the rosy patches above the left ankle was particularly tender and two weeks ago, the area swelled and a nasty blister formed. The top of the lesion ruptured and now there is an ulcer.

Dottie has pernio, the technical name for chilblains. The blotches appear in the fall, last all winter, and disappear with warm weather. The involved regions are dusky red and are accompanied by tenderness, burning, and itching. The redness does not represent inflammation because the areas are cold to the touch. Irritation increases the size and depth of the lesion, after which ulceration usually occurs. The clew is the appearance of the condition in winter and its disappearance in summer.

The cause of chilblains is not known. Since it is more common in England and on the continent than in America, weather and dress may be factors. Our European neighbors have more damp, cold days than we do and their heating and ventilating systems are not as good as ours. The disorder also is more prevalent in certain families, suggesting inherent weakness of the blood vessels. The capillaries react too violently to cold and respond too slowly to heat. In this respect, the warming up process, after coming in from out of doors, plays an equal role with exposure to cold. Many victims have sensed this and blame their condition on the use of hot water bags or sitting too close to the stove or fireplace. Others admit they have worn thin, perforated shoes with only bobby socks to protect the legs from cold. Others have worn thin hose and short skirts.

Most sufferers are women and the disease develops at any age from 5 to 50. The peak occurs during adolescence. The arms and legs are involved most often, altho the ears and nose are favored at times. Pernio is more prevalent in office workers than in those who are constantly exposed to the cold. Certain farm girls are the exceptions; they develop the condition on the buttocks, presumably from sitting on cold tractor seats.

Treatment seldom is needed because the condition vanishes when the weather improves. If the case is severe, it may be necessary to remain in bed or indoors during the colder months of the year. Thick, woolen hose ought to be worn as well as warm underwear and dresses and a heavy coat because when the body is warm, the extremities are less likely to become chilled. Well fitted shoes and gloves do not hinder the circulation of the limbs. Wet shoes and stockings ought to be removed as soon as feasible because dampness is a contributing factor in chilblains.

TOMORROW: Digestion in the small intestine.

We fail to diagnose the Republican attack even though this was one time the Democrats were deserving.

In our violent ward of partisan politics we figure it's okay to boot a man when he's down. But not when he's out.

Does anybody on this quizzical panel know the two parties were hyphenated at a time when the Mason-Dixie line ran through the U. S. Treasury?

Jefferson, Madison, Monroe and Quincy Adams were Republican-Democrats who combined the most nutritious ingredients of both parties. And on pay-day turned the other cheek like the vicar of Bray.

There wasn't an out-and-out Republican until Abe Lincoln in 1861. Then again in 1932 when F.D.R. kept them out-and-out-and-out-and out.

Newspaper Reaction Almost Tips White House Scales Against McCarthy; Republican National Chairman Still Runs Interference For McCarthy

WASHINGTON — Not since Dwight Eisenhower entered the White House has there been such pulling and hauling by opposing groups of advisers as over Joe McCarthy last week. The result was an original draft of a strongly worded anti-McCarthy statement which never saw the light of day; then the modified gentle rebuke which was published.

The pro-McCarthy group inside the White House included General "Slick" Persons, the President's long-time military friend; Jack Martin, former assistant to Senator Taft; and Gerald Morgan, who with his partner once got $10,000 a month for lobbying against high taxes and for the pipeline companies. Vice President Nixon also lined up in favor of appeasing McCarthy.

This group has told the President that McCarthy isn't so bad, that the bad man in the McCarthy entourage, is Roy Cohn; that senators are demanding that McCarthy get rid of him.

The anti-McCarthy group inside the White House includes Bob Cutler, the Boston banker; Max Rabb; Bernard Shanley, White House counsel; C. D. Jackson, publisher of Fortune Magazine; and Sherman Adams, chief assistant to the President. Jim Hagerty remains more or less neutral.

Though the anti-McCarthy group inside the White House has been stronger, two groups outside the White House also have carried great weight with the sometimes hesitating President.

One is the Republican National Committee together with right-wing, isolationist senators who have been constantly warning like that Joe McCarthy is necessary for them to win an election. With him and the Communist issue, they argue, the GOP can capture the Irish Catholic vote and swing such key states as Illinois to the Republican column next November.

Newspaper Criticism

The opposing McCarthy group outside the White House includes some of the most influential newspapers in the country, most of them pro-Eisenhower. They swung a tremendous bloc of independent votes for Ike in 1952, and their support or defection would probably spell the difference between a large bloc of independent votes today.

Business And Health

By ROGER W. BABSON

"up to snuff," the company might not have need to lay you and others off. So much for that. Now some statistics on the direct cash cost of illness and accidents.

Illnesses and Accidents

The Health Information Foundation reports that during the past full year 22,000,000 families of these United States as individuals paid out over $10,000,000,000 for medical and dental costs. Furthermore, this was in addition to what the federal government and the states expended. Of the above $10 billion, $2 billion went to hospitals, nearly $5½ billion to doctors and dentists, $1½ billion for medicines, and over $1 billion for other practitioners, nurses, etc.

Most of the people treated got well, although they lost both time and money. But a good part of this expense was absolutely thrown away—for there were nearly 100,000 deaths, largely from automobile accidents. In addition, millions of others were injured by accidents, such as traffic accidents—1,350,000; drownings—6,800; home falls—20,000; industrial accidents—15,000; burns—6,400; firearms—2,500; etc., etc. These figures are supplied by the National Safety Council. I wonder how many readers of this column will be included in the 1954 figures!

Look To The Future

The politicians and welfare experts are constantly raising the legal age at which young people can go to work. Now they say that all should have a college education. At the same time, industry is retiring more people between 60 and 65-years of age. Today the number of people over 65 years is one in twelve; in 25 years it will be one in nine. But there is the money coming from to give the young people 22 years for education and play, and the old people pensions.

The truth is that somehow (through more taxes or higher prices), these millions of young and old must be supported by those between 22 and 60-65 years of age. The latter must also supply the $10 billion mentioned above. This makes the cost of sickness, youth, and old age far more important than the cost of coffee!

When you consider that thousands of companies are suffering losses for this reason, it shows how poor health and worry must affect the entire business of the country. If you are unemployed, it may be due to your health or to your boss's health. In other words, if he were

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH AND STEWART ALSOP

What They Tell The President

WASHINGTON Every time there is one of the constantly recurring McCarthy crises, this is about what President Eisenhower hears from certain "practical" political advisers:

"Mr. President, we know how you feel about the Republican party. We know you could have had the Democratic nomination any time you crooked your little finger, but you gave up everything to run on the Republican ticket and lead us out of the wilderness of creeping socialism. Now, in politics, you've got to be practical. And we Republicans have just got to hold both houses of Congress this year."

"If the Democrats win they'll organize the Congress, and then they'll just thumb their noses at you. They'll stop your progressive dynamic program dead cold in its tracks, and we'll start drifting to socialism again. The Democrats will be pretty sure bets to spend their way back into the White House again in '56, and then the country will be in for another 20 years of corruption and leftism. We're sure you agree that would be a real national disaster for America."

It is possible to reproduce these arguments confidently, simply because they are constantly repeated, like an old, cracked gramophone record, not only to the President, but to all those who do not want the President to knuckle under to McCarthy. The second point follows naturally from the first—Republican defeat in November being equated with national disaster, Republican victory is then equated with Joseph R. McCarthy, as follows:

Key To Victory

"Now, Mr. President, as a down-to-earth matter of practical politics, the Republican party needs Joe McCarthy and it needs him bad. There's no doubt about it. The voters like Joe. Why, people fall over themselves to pay a hundred bucks for a lousy chicken dinner, if Joe's scheduled to speak."

"Why, he's the best drawing card we've got, votes-wise, money-wise, every way—except you, Mr. President. We've had some pretty down-to-earth studies made, and they show Joe holds the key to victory in at least three states, maybe more. And we've just got to win those states, not only for the good of the party, but for the good of the country."

Moreover, the argument always runs, this is the wrong time to stand up to McCarthy:

"The trouble is we haven't got a real good case against Joe. After

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Philosophy Of McCarthy

Every man, in private or public life, functions within the margins of a philosophy of action. Joe McCarthy has been with us long enough for the pattern of his philosophy to be sufficiently clear to be describable. Attacked more viciously than any man in public position since Herbert Hoover was president, he has survived, not because the powerful men of the country or even his party favor him, but because the people support him. The phenomenon requires analysis.

McCarthy is not a military hero; he is not a great orator; he has never assumed leadership either in legislation or administration. He is not a scholar or a jurist. Nevertheless, few senators will deny that McCarthy can go into their states and affect the vote on Election Day. McCarthy is not a demagogue, for he makes no promises to the people, sets forth no broad program and asks for no votes. He actually risked defeat in Wisconsin, where he ran for office, by campaigning in states where he did not run for office. He defeated Senators Tydings in Maryland and Benton in Connecticut.

Why then do the people follow McCarthy, so that he represents substantial power in Congress? The answer is that in the simplicity of his intellectual orientation, McCarthy mirrors not only what the people think but what they want.

One can use such a term as Americanism, but that is not quite it. It is Americanism of a kind—of a kind which those of us over 40 experienced and those under 40 have only heard about. It is an expression on its negative side of a rejection of Marxism; on its positive side it amounts to articulate patriotism.

Arthur Krock, for whom I have the greatest respect, refers to McCarthy as a bully; yet Krock can remember, I am sure, when if a man did not pledge allegiance to the flag or did not rise to the "Star Spangled Banner" someone made him do it. And there was a time when if one heard someone denouncing the United States, he would punch him. Rude, Uncouth! Brutal! Immature! Call it what you will, but it was an emotional response to patriotism by energetic, strong-willed people.

In our maturity (if it is not senility) we have become so refined that a soldier may wear the uniform of the country who will not even pledge loyalty to the flag and Constitution. Is it refinement or is it the denaturing of national pride?

Were McCarthy only an anti-

all, maybe he's got something there. Of course, if he attacks you directly, Mr. President, you've got to mow him down, and we're all for you. But not now, when we haven't got a real air-tight case against him."

Finally, there comes the clincher, a shrewd appeal to the President, not as politician but as President:

"We understand how you feel about McCarthy, Mr. President. We appreciate the way you feel. Joe goes too far by a damned sight. But as President of the United States, you can't split the party down the middle and lose '54 and '56 and hand the country over to the leftists, and the egg-heads and the bleeding hearts just because you don't like one man and his methods. As President, your personal feelings have got to come last."

No Basis For Argument

These arguments always sway the President, at least to the extent that a compromise policy is adopted, which leaves McCarthy in triumphant possession of the field. It is easy to see why the President is swayed. He still regards himself as a rank political amateur, and he still tends to defer to the self-anointed experts in the dark political art. Yet the plain fact is that every one of the arguments reproduced above is wholly specious.

There is no solid reason whatsoever for believing that McCarthy is the asset to the Republican party he is supposed to be. Every sounding of public opinion indicates that he alienates at least as many voters as he attracts. It is often forgotten that McCarthy campaigned all-out in Missouri, Montana and Washington in 1952, and that in all three states his support proved the kiss of death for McCarthy-minded Republican senatorial candidates, despite the Eisenhower landslide.

Obviously, McCarthy is not so stupid as to supply the administration conveniently with an "air-tight case" against him. Nor is he so stupid as to attack the President directly—until he is sure he can destroy him.

But the most specious argument of all is the one which, according to reliable report, sways the President the most—the contention that the President should not allow himself to be influenced by his own personal feelings about McCarthy, which amount to a mixture of anger and contempt. When his leadership is threatened, his basic principles assaulted, and the integrity of his branch of the government attacked, the President not only has a right to have strong personal feelings. He has a duty to act on them.

Communist, he would make no greater impression on the public mind than the other millions of Americans who are anti-Communist, some of whom write articles and make speeches and report on their wicked neighbors. His strength is that he adds to anti-communism a revived patriotism, a resurrection of nationalism, an insistence upon a traditional respect for country, flag and Constitution. Many who oppose McCarthy are as patriotic as he is and have perhaps thought the problem out as well or better than he has. But they are gentle in their enunciation; they are polite in their attacks; they are unwilling to risk being lampooned; they are too refined to soil themselves with the mud of battle.

Many of them say that while they like his goals, they despise his methods. Actually, they generally know little about his methods, for another element in McCarthy's strength is the fact that, except in the case of James Wechsler, about whom there are vast differences of opinion, no one has yet challenged McCarthy, naming names, that he has without warrant accused anyone of disloyalty, subversion or espionage.

The politicians of both parties are beginning to discover that the American people are growing increasingly anti-inter-nationalist. There will be many new faces in the Congress after 1954 because it is difficult for those who have been internationalists to explain our diplomatic defeats, neutralism, the growth of Soviet Russia, the emergence of a Communist state in Latin America, the infiltration of our government and institutions of learning. Parents, however, are recognizing that their children know all about the world but know very little about the United States. They say something must be wrong.

Even those who grow irked by McCarthy's roughness support his ardent nationalism and they go along with him, in astonishing numbers. From my knowledge of the man, I would say that nationalism is his philosophy.

Eisenhower And McCarthy

Senator McCarthy intends to have his Senate Committee on Government Operations "check closely" on the State Department's decision to strip its security chief, R. W. Scott McLeod, of power to hire and fire personnel. At the same time, President Eisenhower is on record as holding that "the assignment to duty of any administrative officer in any department of government" is the "responsibility of the head of that department, and no one else's whatsoever." Thus a recurrence seems more likely of disputes similar to the issuance of counter-statements by the President and McCarthy on March 3.

General Eisenhower was first publicly queried about his stand on "McCarthyism" at his Abilene, Kan., press conference on June 5, 1952. The questioner referred to a letter which Eisenhower as president of Columbia University had written praising Ambassador-at-Large Jessup. Jessup had been accused by McCarthy of having "an unusual affinity for Communist causes."

At Abilene, General Eisenhower reiterated his unwillingness to "indulge in any kind of personalities under any pretext whatever." Then he said:

"When you are talking about a name that is supposed to mean and to convey to me an idea or a program of action, I shall say this: No one could be more determined than I that any kind of communistic, subversive or pinkish influence be uprooted from responsible places in our government. . . . On the other hand, I believe that can be done with the use under competent leadership of the kind of facility, agency we have now, and I believe it can be done without besmirching the reputation of any innocent man or condemning by loose association or anything else."

Later, in his campaign, at Green Bay and at Milwaukee, Wis., both on October 3, 1952, General Eisenhower urged the re-election of Senator McCarthy. At Green Bay, the General said that the differences between McCarthy and him had "nothing to do with the end result we are seeking," but applied to "method." Congressional investigations would always be "appreciated and welcomed" by him as head of the executive department. At Milwaukee, however, the General emphasized: "The future of this country belongs . . . to men who know that freedom's fight must be forever relentless, uncompromising and fair."

As for McCarthy, on June 14, 1951, the Senator made an attack on General Marshall, part of which alleged that Marshall "unflinchingly opposed" enterprises McCarthy listed as "winning the war in North Africa and . . . our subsequent conquest of Sicily and Italy." Then he added: "In all these attitudes, Eisenhower, who had become commander in chief in North Africa, was Marshall's firm supporter."

At the 1952 Republican convention, McCarthy said that he favored the nomination of General MacArthur but that Senator Taft and General Eisenhower were "outstanding men." In the fight over the Bohlen nomination McCarthy on March 25, 1953 said that he would campaign again for Dwight Eisenhower. But, he added: "When Dwight Eisenhower nominates a man who I think is not suited for appointment, I will fight that nomination with all the power and strength I have."

Further brushes with the White House led to a climax on a nation-wide broadcast by McCarthy on November 24, ostensibly aimed at former President Truman, in which he itemized anti-Communist cases "in which our (Republican administration) batting average is zero."

Experimental

Little demonstrable benefit resulted from last summer's vast anti-polio program, which cost more than $6,500,000 for mass inoculation with the blood derivative gamma globulin, according to findings released by the United States Public Health Service.

The outright statement that gamma globulin inoculations are valueless does not appear in the findings of the 10 experts who did the fact finding job for the health service and have been working since the end of last summer's polio season to evaluate the data. But their findings throw the entire anti-polio crusade back into the experimental stage.

The committee of experts observed that both in the case of the inoculations among children of families where polio had already hit, and gamma globulin was administered on a mass basis, it was a case of locking the door after the horse had been stolen. Painstaking research noted that the data collected in most of the mass inoculation areas was valueless because the shots were given after the polio incidence had passed the epidemic stage.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis plans to go ahead with a gamma globulin program this year three times as intensive as the 1953 effort. The foundation is convinced that a great deal has been learned and that the mass inoculation program should start earlier.

Incidentally, the gamma globulin program this year should not be confused with the tests which will be made with the new polio anti-virus. More than 500,000 youngsters will be inoculated with the new serum in hopes of giving at least one season's immunity to polio.

Testing V-6 Engine

For many years, almost ever since the advent of the V-8 automobile engine, engineers of the various auto companies have been experimenting with V-6 engines, attempting to prepare one for market.

Although these experiments have not been too successful to date, there are signs appearing which indicate that the V-6 engine may indeed become a reality in the near future.

Heavy tooling costs seem to be the greatest drawback to the V-6. Engineers working with these engines have always claimed in the past that it would cost almost as much to make a V-6 as a V-8. Furthermore, they never were able to decrease manufacturing costs or increase gasoline mileage sufficiently on the V-6 to make the production of this engine practicable.

Experimentation on the V-6 was revitalized after World War II, however, when emphasis began to be placed on the high compression V-8 engine.

It costs approximately $60,000-80,000 to take a V-8 engine from the draftsman to the assembly line, so it is easy to see why no one wants to spend that kind of money on an engine that so far has shown no outstanding possibilities.

Nevertheless, it is safe to assume that as soon as the inefficiency factor is overcome and manufacturing costs are lowered, the V-6 engine will be on the market.

Chilblains: Mottled Skin Blisthes

A high school girl is upset because, for two winters, the skin of both lower legs has been covered with red blotches. One of the rosy patches above the left ankle was particularly tender and two weeks ago, the area swelled and a nasty blister formed. The top of the lesion ruptured and now there is an ulcer.

Dottle has pernio, the technical name for chilblains. The blotches appear in the fall, last all winter, and disappear with warm weather. The involved regions are dusky red and are accompanied by tenderness, burning, and itching. The redness does not represent inflammation because the areas are cold to the touch. Irritation increases the size and depth of the lesion, after which ulceration usually occurs. The clue is the appearance of the condition in winter and its disappearance in summer.

The cause of chilblains is not known. Since it is more common in England and on the continent than in America, weather and dress may be factors. Our European neighbors have more damp, cold days than we do and their heating and ventilating systems are not as good as ours. The disorder also is more prevalent in certain families, suggesting inherent weakness of the blood vessels. The capillaries react too violently to cold and respond too slowly to heat. In this respect, the warming up process, after coming in from out of doors, plays an equal role with exposure to cold. Many victims have sensed this and blame their condition on the use of hot water bags or sitting too close to the stove or fireplace. Others admit they have worn thin, perforated shoes with only bobby socks to protect the legs from cold. Others have worn thin hose and short skirts.

Most sufferers are women and the disease develops at any age from 5 to 50. The peak occurs during adolescence. The arms and legs are involved most often, altho the ears and nose are favored at times. Pernio is more prevalent in office workers than in those who are constantly exposed to the cold. Certain farm girls are the exceptions; they develop the condition on the buttocks, presumably from sitting on cold tractor seats.

Treatment seldom is needed because the condition vanishes when the weather improves. If the case is severe, it may be necessary to remain in bed or indoors during the colder months of the year. Thick, woolen hose ought to be worn as well as warm underwear and dresses and a heavy coat because when the body is warm, the extremities are less likely to become chilled. Well fitted shoes and gloves do not hinder the circulation of the limbs. Wet shoes and stockings ought to be removed as soon as feasible because dampness is a contributing factor in chilblains.

We fail to diagnose the Republican attack even though this was one time the Democrats were deserving.

In our violent ward of partisan politics we figure it's okay to boot a man when he's down. But not when he's out.

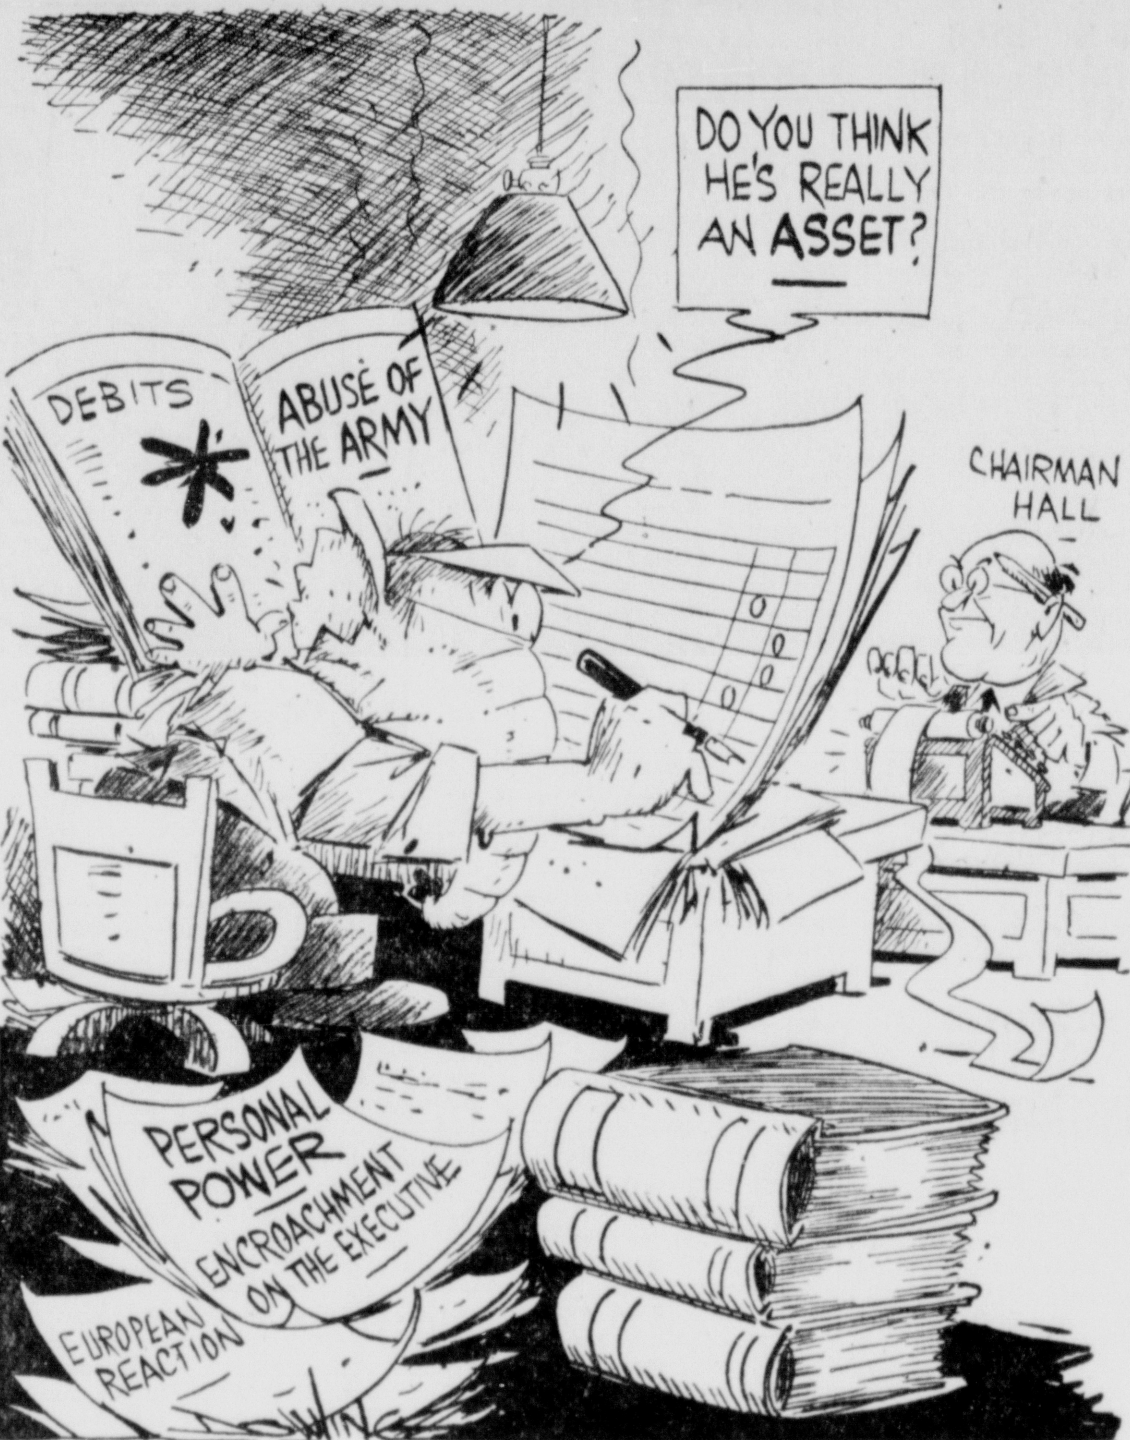

Does anybody on this quizzical panel know the two parties were hynepnated at a time when the Mason-Dixie line ran through the U. S. Treasury?

Jefferson, Madison, Monroe and Quincy Adams were Republican Democrats who combined the most nutritious ingredients of both parties. And on pay-day turned the other cheek like the vicar of Bray.

There wasn't an out-and-out Republican until Abe Lincoln in 1861. Then again in 1932 when F.D.R. kept them out-and-out-and-out-and out.

Newspaper Reaction Almost Tips White House Scales Against McCarthy; Republican National Chairman Still Runs Interference For McCarthy

WASHINGTON — Not since Dwight Eisenhower entered the White House has there been such pulling and hauling by opposing groups of advisers as over Joe McCarthy last week. The result was an original draft of a strongly worded anti-McCarthy statement which never saw the light of day; then the modified gentle rebuke which was published.

The pro-McCarthy group inside the White House included General "Slick" Persons, the President's long-time military friend; Jack Martin, former assistant to Senator Taft; and Gerald Morgan, who with his partner once got $10,000 a month for lobbying against high taxes and for the pipeline companies. Vice President Nixon also lined up in favor of appeasing McCarthy.

This group has told the President that McCarthy isn't so bad, that the bad man in the McCarthy entourage, is Roy Cohn; that senators are demanding that McCarthy get rid of him.

The anti-McCarthy group inside the White House includes Bob Cutler, the Boston banker; Max Rabb; Bernard Shanley, White House counsel; C. D. Jackson, publisher of Fortune Magazine; and Sherman Adams, chief assistant to the President. Jim Hagerty remains more or less neutral.

Though the anti-McCarthy group inside the White House has been stronger, two groups outside the White House also have carried great weight with the sometimes hesitating President.

One is the Republican National Committee together with right-wing, isolationist senators who have been constantly warning like that Joe McCarthy is necessary for them to win an election. With him and the Communist issue, they argue, the GOP can capture the Irish Catholic vote and swing such key states as Illinois to the Republican column next November.

Newspaper Criticism

The opposing McCarthy group outside the White House includes some of the most influential newspapers in the country, most of them pro-Eisenhower. They swung a tremendous bloc of independent votes for Ike in 1952, and their support or defection would probably spell the difference between a large bloc of independent votes today.

By ROGER W. BABSON

"up to snuff," the company might have had need to lay you and others off. So much for that. Now some statistics on the direct cash cost of illness and accidents.

Illnesses and Accidents

The Health Information Foundation reports that during the past full year 22,000,000 families of these United States as individuals paid out over $10,000,000,000 for medical and dental costs. Furthermore, this was in addition to what the federal government and the states expended. Of the above $10 billion, $2 billion went to hospitals, nearly $5½ billion to doctors and dentists, $1½ billion for medicines, and over $1 billion for other practitioners, nurses, etc.

Most of the people treated got well, although they lost both time and money. But a good part of this expense was absolutely thrown away—for there were nearly 100,000 deaths, largely from automobile accidents. In addition, millions of others were injured by accidents, such as traffic accidents—1,350,000; drownings—6,800; home falls—20,000; industrial accidents—15,000; burns—6,400; firearms—2,500; etc., etc. These figures are supplied by the National Safety Council. I wonder how many readers of this column will be included in the 1954 figures!

Look To The Future

The politicians and welfare experts are constantly raising the legal age at which young people can go to work. Now they say that all should have a college education. At the same time, industry is retiring more people between 60 and 65-years of age. Today the number of people over 65 years is one in twelve; in 25 years it will be one in nine. But there is the money coming from to give the young people 22 years for education and play, and the old people pensions.

The truth is that somehow (through more taxes or higher prices), these millions of young and old must be supported by those between 22 and 60-65 years of age. The latter must also supply the $10 billion mentioned above. This makes the cost of sickness, youth, and old age far more important than the cost of coffee!

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH AND STEWART ALSOP

What They Tell The President

WASHINGTON
Every time there is one of the constantly recurring McCarthy crises, this is about what President Eisenhower hears from certain "practical" political advisers: "Mr. President, we know how you feel about the Republican party. We know you could have had the Democratic nomination any time you crooked your little finger, but you gave up everything to run on the Republican ticket and lead us out of the wilderness of creeping socialism. Now, in politics, you've got to be practical. And we Republicans have just got to hold both houses of Congress this year."

"If the Democrats win they'll organize the Congress, and then they'll just thumb their noses at you. They'll stop your progressive dynamic program dead cold in its tracks, and we'll start drifting to socialism again. The Democrats will be pretty sure bets to spend their way back into the White House again in '56, and then the country will be in for another 20 years of corruption and leftism. We're sure you agree that would be a real national disaster for America."

It is possible to reproduce these arguments confidently, simply because they are constantly repeated, like an old, cracked gramophone record, not only to the President, but to all those who do not want the President to knuckle under to McCarthy. The second point follows naturally from the first—Republican defeat in November being equated with national disaster, Republican victory is then equated with Joseph R. McCarthy, as follows:

Key To Victory

"Now, Mr. President, as a down-to-earth matter of practical politics, the Republican party needs Joe McCarthy and it needs him bad. There's no doubt about it. The voters like Joe. Why, people fall over themselves to pay a hundred bucks for a lousy chicken dinner, if Joe's scheduled to speak."

"Why, he's the best drawing card we've got, votes-wise, money-wise, every way—except you, Mr. President. We've had some pretty down-to-earth studies made, and they show Joe holds the key to victory in at least three states, maybe more. And we've just got to win those states, not only for the good of the party, but for the good of the country."

Moreover, the argument always runs, this is the wrong time to stand up to McCarthy:

"The trouble is we haven't got a real good case against Joe. After all, maybe he's got something there. Of course, if he attacks you directly, Mr. President, you've got to mow him down, and we're all for you. But not now, when we haven't got a real air-tight case against him."

Finally, there comes the clincher, a shrewd appeal to the President, not as politician but as President:

"We understand how you feel about McCarthy, Mr. President. We appreciate the way you feel. Joe goes too far by a damned sight. But as President of the United States, you can't split the party down the middle and lose '54 and '56 and hand the country over to the leftists, and the egg-heads and the bleeding hearts just because you don't like one man and his methods. As President, your personal feelings have got to come last."

It is easy to see why the President is swayed. He still regards himself as a rank political amateur, and he still tends to defer to the self-anointed experts in the dark political art. These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Philosophy Of McCarthy

Every man, in private or public life, functions within the margins of a philosophy of action. Joe McCarthy has been with us long enough for the pattern of his philosophy to be sufficiently clear to be describable. Attacked more viciously than any man in public position since Herbert Hoover was president, he has survived, not because the powerful men of the country or even his party favor him, but because the people support him. The phenomenon requires analysis.

McCarthy is not a military hero; he is not a great orator; he has never assumed leadership either in legislation or administration.

He is not a scholar or a jurist. Nevertheless, few senators will deny that McCarthy can go into their states and affect the vote on Election Day. McCarthy is not a demagogue, for he makes no promises to the people, sets forth no broad program and asks for no votes. He actually risked defeat in Wisconsin, where he ran for office, by campaigning in states where he did not run for office. He defeated Senators Tydings in Maryland and Benton in Connecticut.

Why then do the people follow McCarthy, so that he represents substantial power in Congress? The answer is that in the simplicity of his intellectual orientation, McCarthy mirrors not only what the people think but what they want.

One can use such a term as Americanism, but that is not quite it. It is Americanism of a kind—of a kind which those of us over 40 experienced and those under 40 have only heard about. State officials, among them Frank T. Powers, Frostburg, director of the Maryland Bureau of Mines, reported to Governor McKeldin Friday at Annapolis on the harm that would be done if Pennsylvania mine water would be dumped into the Chesapeake Bay.

After the conference, the Governor requested Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay for an early appointment to discuss the federal plan to tunnel water from the anthracite mines into the Susquehanna River below the Conowingo Dam.

The decision to meet with McKay was made by McKeldin after conferring with his top advisors on mines, conservation, natural resources, health and water supply.

Dr. J. T. Singewald, director of the State Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources, suggested that the group find out how much water would come through the tunnel and how dangerous it would be.

Powers then said that "everyone knows that mine water kills anything in the river."

"We have found that out along the Potomac in Western Maryland," he added.

"Also, anytime any Maryland mine water goes into Pennsylvania from our state, they don't waste anytime getting to us," Powers declared.

The governor asked the department heads to prepare formal reports on the effects of the mine water to the interests of their respective departments.

Bruce High School, of Westernport, will play Hereford High School, of Baltimore county, at Frederick Tuesday at 3 o'clock for the right to compete in the Maryland State Basketball Tournament Class "B" semi-finals at Ritchie Coliseum, University of Maryland Friday.

Announcement of this effect was made yesterday by Arthur G. Ramey, of the state athletic board, after he had been informed that Hereford High School had defeated Arundel High of Gambrills, Anne Arundel county, in the Class "B" finals of the District III tournament Saturday night.

Bulldogs Make Sweep
Coach Augie Eichhorn's Bulldogs from Westernport won the "B" section of the District No. 1 tournament Saturday night on the Fort Hill High School court by walloping Brunswick High of Frederick county to the tune of 60-26. In the opening round on Friday afternoon, Bruce eliminated Smithsburg High of Washington county, 73-35.

Ramey stated that Eastern High School in District 5 and Federalburg in District 4 were the other schools that qualified for the Class "B" games at College Park. The No. 2 winner is not known but it is either Damascus, Gwynn Park or Lackey High of Indian Head.

Class "C" winners the past weekend included Perryville in District 4, Pocomoke in District 3 and New Windsor in District 3.

Allegany Tops Southern
Allegany High School's Campers qualified for the College Park games Saturday night by defeating Southern High of Oakland in the Class A District 1 finale at Fort Hill by the score of 73-47. Coach Walter Bowers' team eliminated Hagerstown, 71-61, in the opening round Friday night.

Other "A" semi-finalists for Friday at College Park are Bethesda-Chevy Chase of District 2, Annapolis, which defeated Bel Air, 61-52, in the District 3 finale and Wicomico High of Salisbury in District 5. There are no Class A schools in District 4.

Draw Is Set Today
Ramey stated that drawings for the state games this weekend will be made today. Just what the pairings will be for Friday's semi-finals he was unable to say. The College Park schedule for Friday fixes game times at 1:00, 2:30, 4:00, 6:30, 8:00 and 9:30.

Approximately 1,000 persons gathered at Fort Hill gym Saturday night to see Allegany and Bruce win in decisive fashion.

The Campers rolled to their 14th straight and 22nd win in 23 starts by vanquishing Oakland, Allegany racked up 30 fielders and 13 out of 23 at the foul line while Southern was limited to 16 baskets and meshed 15 of 24 at the free throw line.

Dave Steele and Jim Hoffman accounted for eight goals each for AHS. Steele hooped 22 points and Hoffman 19. Charley Durbin, Southern center, and the top point getter in Western Maryland this season, banged in 19 points and eight baskets and three fouls for the Garrett county quip. The quarter scores were 13-12, 37-20 and 56-29 in Allegany's favor.

Bruce High Too Good

Mike Nofsinger, Dave Marple and Gene Dawson collected 45 points in Bruce's victory over Brunswick. They also accounted for 18 of the Bulldogs' 24 field goals. Nofsinger slammed in 16 points, Marple 15 and Dawson 14. The Bruce team converted 12 of 19 free throws. Jones and Foltz garnered 14 of Brunswick's 26 tallies. The Frederick countians were held to seven measly field goals and the losers sank 12 of 26 foul shots. Manuel of Brunswick was the only player ejected on personal fouls. Bruce led at the quarters, 14-6, 32-11 and 47-17.

Douglas Wins Houston Open

Noses Out Middlecoff For $6,000 Top Prize

HOUSTON, March 7 (AP)—Dave Douglas won his first money of the year today, fashioning a five-under par 67 for a 72-hole $77 for the $6,000 top prize of the $30,000 Houston Open Golf Tournament.

The course record tying nine-under par total led the 36-year-old Grossinger, N. Y., professional two strokes ahead of the defending champion, Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn.

Middlecoff grabbed the $3,200 second prize with a 279. Douglas, a native of Newark, Del., never was in trouble as he methodically toured the 7,200-yard, par 72 Memorial Park Course.

His efficient putting took strokes off par on four holes on the front nine and he started the backside with a one-stroke lead over Middlecoff and Shelly Mayfield, Chicago, Mass.

Mayfield missed a six-foot putt on the 18th green that would have permitted him to tie Middlecoff for the runner-up spot. As it was he finished in a four-way tie for third place at 280 with Ed Oliver, Palm Springs, Calif., Freddie Haas, New Orleans, La., and Ted Kroll, New Hartford, N. Y. Each received $1,700.

PGA champion Walter Burkemo had a record tying 30, six under par, on the front nine while finishing a 65 for a tie for 10th place at 282 with Bill Nary, Tucson, Ariz.

Angelo Gets 30 Points In Mason-Dixon Final

BALTIMORE, March 7 (AP)—Mt. St. Mary's, the surprise team which finished the regular season tied for fourth place with an 11-4 record, won the Mason-Dixon Conference Basketball Tournament last night, soundly trouncing defending champion Loyola, 84-65.

The Mounts, led by high scoring center Sal Angelo, placed three players on the all-tournament team by virtue of their upset of first-seeded Roanoke, 69-52 in the semifinals and last night's rout of Loyola.

Besides Angelo, who scored 30 points in the championship game, Mounts picked for the all-Tourney squad were Jack Sullivan and Bill Stanley.

Rounding out the first team were Loyola's Joel Hittleman, who also scored 30 points last night and broke the tournament individual scoring record with a three-game total of 79 points, and John Gira of Roanoke.

Mt. St. Mary's had a relatively easy time downing Loyola, four-time winner of the tournament.

It was only the second time Mt. St. Mary's had won the tournament, the first being in 1944.

A total of 39 players, 13 on each team, crashed the scoring column during the season.

Nine members of the Allegany squad turned in foul shooting averages of .532 or better and the city's ace free thrower was Dick Rank who wound up the campaign with the remarkable average of .827 by sinking 81 out of 98 shots.

The next best mark was the .735 credited to Barney Spearman, of the Explorers, who converted 61 of 83.

Ten of the 13 members of the LaSalle squad had 500 or better at the foul line while Fort Hill had seven.

Game Set For 3 P.M.; Allegany High Among Four "A" Qualifiers

Bruce High School, of Westernport, will play Hereford High School, of Baltimore, today at Frederick Tuesday at 3 o'clock for the right to compete in the Maryland State Basketball Tournament Class "B" semi-finals at Ritchie Coliseum, University of Maryland Friday.

Announcement of this effect was made yesterday by Arthur G. Ramey, of the state athletic board, after he had been informed that Hereford High School had defeated Arundel High of Gambrills, Anne Arundel county, in the Class "B" finals of the District III tournament Saturday night.

Bulldogs Make Sweep

Coach Augie Eichhorn's Bulldogs from Westernport won the "B" section of the District No. 1 tournament Saturday night on the Fort Hill High School court by walling Brunswick High of Frederick county to the tune of 60-26. In the opening round on Friday afternoon, Bruce eliminated Smithsburg High of Washington county, 73-35.

Ramey stated that Eastern High School in District 3 and Federalburg in District 4 were the other schools that qualified for the Class "B" games at College Park. The No. 2 winner is not known but it is either Damascus, Gwynn Park or Lackey High of Indian Head.

Class "C" winners the past weekend included Perryville in District 4, Pocomoke in District 5 and New Windsor in District 3. Allegany tops Southern.

Allegany High School's Campers qualified for the College Park games Saturday night by defeating Southern High of Oakland in the Class A District 1 finale at Fort Hill by the score of 73-47. Coach Walter Bowers' team eliminated Hagerstown, 71-61, in the opening round Friday night.

Other "A" semi-finalists for Friday at College Park are Bethesda-Chevy Chase of District 2, Annapolis, which defeated Bel Air, 61-52, in the District 3 finale and Wicomico High of Salisbury in District 5. There are no Class A schools in District 4.

Ramey stated that drawings for the state games this weekend will be made today. Just what the pairings will be for Friday's semi-finals was unable to say. The College Park schedule for Friday fixes game times at 1:00, 2:30, 4:00, 6:30, 8:00 and 9:30.

Approximately 1,000 persons gathered at Fort Hill gym Saturday night to see Allegany and Bruce win in decisive fashion.

The Campers rolled to their 14th straight and 22nd win in 23 starts by vanquishing Oakland. Allegany racked up 30 fielders and 13 out of 23 at the foul line while Southern was limited to 16 baskets and meshed 15 of 24 at the free throw line.

Dave Steele and Jim Hoffman accounted for eight goals each for AHS. Steele hooped 22 points and Hoffman 19. Charley Durbin, Southern center, and the top point getter in Western Maryland this season, banged in 19 points and eight baskets and three fouls for the Garrett county quint. The quarter scores were 13-12, 37-20 and 56-29 in Allegany's favor.

Bruce High Too Good

Mike Nofsinger, Dave Marple and Gene Dawson collected 45 points in Bruce's victory over Brunswick. They also accounted for 18 of the Bulldogs' 24 field goals. Nofsinger slammed in 16 points, Marple 15 and Dawson 14. The Bruce team converted 12 of 19 free throws. Jones and Foltz garnered 14 of Brunswick's 26 tallies. The Frederick quintans were held to seven measly field goals and the losers sank 12 of 26 foul shots. Manuel of Brunswick was the only player ejected on personal fouls. Bruce led at the quarters, 14-6, 32-11 and 47-17.

The next meeting of the Demons will be held Sunday, March 14 at 2 p. m., in City Hall.

Douglas Wins Houston Open

Noses Out Middlecoff For $6,000 Top Prize

HOUSTON, March 7 (AP)—Dave Douglas won his first money of the year today, fashioning a five-under par 67 for a 72-hole 277 for the $6,000 top prize of the $30,000 Houston Open Golf Tournament.

The course record tying nine-under par total left the 36-year-old Grossinger, N. Y., professional two strokes ahead of the defending champion, Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn.

Middlecoff grabbed the $3,200 second prize with a 279. Douglas, a native of Newark, Del., never was in trouble as he methodically toured the 7,200-yard, par 72 Memorial Park Course.

His efficient putting took strokes off par on four holes on the front nine and he started the backside with a one-stroke lead over Middlecoff and Shelly Mayfield, Chicago, Mass.

Mayfield missed a six-foot putt on the 18th green that would have permitted him to tie Middlecoff for the runnerup spot. As it was he finished in a four-way tie for third place at 280 with Ed Oliver, Palm Springs, Calif., Freddie Haas, New Orleans, La., and Ted Kroll, New Hartford, N. Y. Each received $1,700.

PGA champion Walter Burkemo had a record tying 30, six under par, on the front nine while finishing a 65 for a tie for 10th place at 282 with Bill Nary, Tucson, Ariz.

Babe Zaharias Wins Tourney

SARASOTA, Fla., March 7 (AP)—Mrs. Babe Zaharias played 72 holes of golf today for the first time since her cancer operation last spring and won the Sarasota Women's Open Tournament with 223 for 54 holes.

MIAMI, Fla., March 7 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers went hitless until the ninth inning today as the Milwaukee Braves made it two in a row over the National League champions, 9-2, before a crowd of 9,446.

The two Brooklyn safeties were topped infield dribblers by Bill Antonello and Ted Bartz with the former scoring on a wild pitch and infield out. Lew Burdette and Jim Wilson both hurled hitless ball in their three-inning stints and Ernie Johnson was equally successful until the final stanza.

The previous Brooklyn run was tallied in the fifth when Ed Matthews and Johnny Logan made errors behind Wilson.

Bobby Thomson again struck the big blow. After Brooklyn starter Bob Miliken hurled three hitless frames, the former Giant banged a two-run homer off Ronnie Negray in the fourth.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 7 (INS).—Having talked with Romola Nijinsky so many times about her husband, Vaslav Nijinsky, the world's greatest dancer, I was greatly interested to hear that she has sold her book, "The Life of Nijinsky" to Charles Vidor.

At the time Romola wrote it, 20 years ago, she was loathe to sell it because her husband, whose mind was clouded, was in an asylum in Switzerland.

She always hoped he might get back his sanity. He was only 26 when he went mad. In her book, Romola blamed his teacher, Serge Draghileff, of the Russian Royal Ballet, who had a Svengali influence on him and who tried to break up their marriage.

Charlie tells me he will seek the world's greatest ballet dancer to portray Nijinsky, one who can dance "Seheherazade," probably Nijinsky's greatest ballet.

One thing for sure, Clark Gable has no intention of forming an independent company as rumored. Clark is more interested in stories submitted him from the major studios.

Now that Sam Goldwyn has "Guys and Dolls" it's out for Clark; but Warners has a movie coming up that he likes very much called "The Story of San Miguel."

Now here's one that Clark would be so perfect for, "The Magnificent Bastard." Lucy Crockett's book. As Colonel Colin Black, the insolent Marine officer, he would be ideal. He's reading the book now but as yet there's no decision.

Lana Turner as a hostess in her own home, ably assisted by Lex Barker, has dignity and charm. Lana and Lex entertained for the Irving Manheimers, the Fred Sammis, and Ann Higgenbotham, of Photoplay magazine.

"How do you like my hair?"

laughed Lana.

"I liked you better as a blonde," I told her.

"Look, I put light streaks in front just for you," she said. And she does look well.

Lex, who goes to Universal-International on a contract, had many of the U-I people, while Lana was staunchly surrounded by MGM's.

Later, we went on from the Barkers to La Rue for dinner, and then to see Dick Contino at Mocambo.

There was a world of disappointment in Gene Tierney's voice when she told me over the phone, "Aly has been delayed in Paris and won't be here until next week."

By that time, Gene will be starting "The Egyptian" and won't be able to be with her favorite boy friend every minute as she could have been before the cameras started at 20th.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Kay Marx, Groucho's ex, and Comedian Lennie Sherman, plan to marry in New York in three weeks. Looks like it's a romance with Teresa Wright and Don Taylor. She went to Phoenix especially to see him in "Mister Roberts," at the Sombbrero Theatre.

There's a plan to put "Last Man Out," Richard English's famous radio show on TV. Richard's had many awards for his expose of the Commies via radio.

That Red Skelton! What won't he do next! Rounding a corner in New York he ran straight into Greta Garbo. Yelled Red at the startled Garbo, "I don't want to be alone!" No wonder she broke into a run!

The latest date in Zsa Zsa Gabor's life is Dan Dailey, who took her to the dog races in Phoenix.

The script of "Mister Roberts" has been put into the capable hands of John Patrick, author of "The Hasty Heart" and "Teahouse of the August Moon."

Merle Oberon and the Charles Feldmans were the weekend guests of Jennifer and David Selznick in Palm Springs.

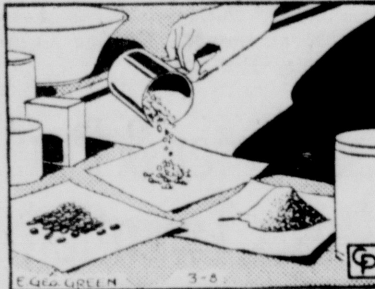

Wonder why Sally Forrest was so nervous at Ciro's? She was with a good looking named James Parker and seemed to be expecting someone she didn't want to see.

Sophie and Adam Gimbel were the weekend guests of the Jules Steins.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

THANKS TO MODERN MEDICINE

he lived

the tale!

No STORY TOLD by grandfather is more dramatic than the one which recounts how his days have been lengthened by modern medical progress. Advances in geriatric medicine, and new drugs for the aged, help make twilight years healthier and happier.

Today's children owe a debt to modern medicine. New skills and new drug developments give their generation an average life expectancy of 20 years more than children had who were born 40 years ago.

These benefits and other modern medical advances are yours in PEOPLES CERTIFIED PRESCRIPTIONS, compounded by PEOPLES pharmacists—skillfully, accurately. And your prescription is priced with uniform economy at any PEOPLES SERVICE DRUG STORE.

Exquisitely matched to the skin, powder provides a soft-focus backdrop to dramatize eyes and lips!

The right face powder, correctly applied, is never apparent, but it performs an invaluable service for any woman's beauty.

It provides the soft-focus backdrop that makes the lips look richer and fuller, the eyes more luminous and the hair more glorious. It smooths away tiny blemishes and evens out the skin's surface in a time-erasing fashion.

Selecting Shade

Whenever a woman dashes up to a cosmetic counter, lightly peruses a powder color chart or looks over a tray of samples, she may of course be lucky enough to have hit upon the right shade. But the chances are that she hasn't.

No skin is pure white, pure pink or pure yellow. It is a subtle combination of many tints. Even the hair's coloring through its reflection on the face affects the tint of the skin.

Because of the multiplicity of color factors, a muted, neutralized shade of powder is always preferable. A clear, true shade of powder cannot possibly result in a natural effect.

Face powder should never be lighter than the skin. The most attractive effects are achieved when the powder and foundation not only match each other but the complexion also.

Just as foundations may be used to "remodel" the face, so may powders. This is accomplished by using a darker powder on an area you wish to minimize and a lighter one on an area you wish to augment. If your face is too wide, use the darker powder in two long sweeps at the outer sides of the cheeks. The nose will seem smaller if it's powdered with a shade darker than the rest of the face. A too-small chin will seem more

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 7 (INS).—Having talked with Romola Nijinsky so many times about her husband, Vaslav Nijinsky, the world's greatest dancer, I was greatly interested to hear that she has sold her book, "The Life of Nijinsky" to Charles Vidor.

At the time Romola wrote it, 20 years ago, she was loathe to sell it because her husband, whose mind was clouded, was in an asylum in Switzerland.

She always hoped he might get back his sanity. He was only 26 when he went mad. In her book, Romola blamed his teacher, Serge Draghileff, of the Russian Royal Ballet, who had a Svengali influence on him and who tried to break up their marriage.

Charlie tells me he will seek the world's greatest ballet dancer to portray Nijinsky, one who can dance "Scheherazade," probably Nijinsky's greatest ballet.

One thing for sure, Clark Gable has no intention of forming an independent company as rumored. Clark is more interested in stories submitted him from the major studios.

Now that Sam Goldwyn has "Guys and Dolls" it's out for Clark; but Warners has a movie coming up that he likes very much called "The Story of San Miguel."

Now here's one that Clark would be so perfect for, "The Magnificent Bastard." Lucy Crockett's book. As Colonel Colin Black, the insolent Marine officer, he would be ideal. He's reading the book now but as yet there's no decision.

Lana Turner as a hostess in her own home, ably assisted by Lex Barker, has dignity and charm. Lana and Lex entertained for the Irving Manheimers, the Fred Sammis, and Ann Higgenbotham, of Photoplay magazine.

"How do you like my hair?" laughed Lana.

"I liked you better as a blonde," I told her.

"Look, I put light streaks in front just for you," she said. And she does look well.

Lex, who goes to Universal-International on a contract, had many of the U-I people, while Lana was staunchly surrounded by MGM's.

Later, we went on from the Barkers to La Rue for dinner, and then to see Dick Contino at Mocambo.

There was a world of disappointment in Gene Tierney's voice when she told me over the phone, "Aly has been delayed in Paris and won't be here until next week."

By that time, Gene will be starting "The Egyptian" and won't be able to be with her favorite boyfriend every minute as she could have been before the cameras started at 20th.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Sophie and Adam Gimbel were the weekend guests of the Jules Steins.

The programs listed below are supplied by the local radio stations, which are responsible for their accuracy. This space is provided without charge by The News as a service to listeners.

Her last appearance on Colgate was in "Anything Goes" in which Miss Merman starred on Broadway way back in 1934. It was originally a superb musical with an hilarious book by Russell Crouse and Howard Lindsay and one of Cole Porter's most captivating scores. Well, during a while back and, while she belted out some wonderful songs with the clamorous assurance of a gong, she was imbedded in the time in some awfully tired and strained comedy routines.

This production, though, was an eye-filling and elaborate one and was beautifully lit. There were several gay and impudent chorus numbers with the girls dressed in sort of parodies of the dresses of the '20s. The chorines were a collection of real beauties and were perhaps a trifle too beautiful. After all, Miss Merman, alas, is 20 years older than she was when she first performed this role. She shouldn't be subjected to such competition.

One Man Killed, Two Injured In 2-Car Crash At Short Gap

Maynard Davis Dies Instantly As Cars Collide

Gilbert Rannells Reported Serious At Local Hospital

One man was killed and two others were badly injured in a two-car collision near Short Gap, W. Va., on State Route 28 last night about 9 o'clock.

Dead was Maynard Lee Davis, 22, of Patterson Creek. Injured and hospitalized at Memorial Hospital in Cumberland were: Rev. Robert D. Goshorn, 26, of Springfield, W. Va. and Gilbert Rannells, 50, also of Springfield.

Cpl. F. H. Tribett, Keyser detachment of the West Virginia State Police, said Davis apparently was killed almost instantly when his car, which was traveling south toward Short Gap, skidded broadside into the other vehicle, apparently driven by Rev. Goshorn and headed toward Cumberland.

Tribett said the mishap occurred in front of the George Merritt residence about half a mile on the Cumberland side of Short Gap as the cars traveled along a winding stretch of road.

Thrown Down Embankment The Goshorn automobile plowed into the right side of Davis' car and the two vehicles came to a stop on the east side of the road near a six-foot embankment in front of the Merritt home.

Davis, who was driving alone, was thrown clear of the crash by the impact and was found dead at the bottom of the embankment. Tribett said tire tracks leading to the scene of the accident indicated Davis apparently lost control of his car as he rounded a curve in the roadway, then swung into the opposite lane of traffic, back to the right side again, and then skidded sideways into the approaching Goshorn car and was struck full in the right side.

The Goshorn vehicle front was imbedded deep into the Davis car with the front wheel tires on the other car's running board.

Memorial Hospital attaches said Rannells, a Springfield carpenter, was in very serious condition last night with severe lacerations of the head and possible fractures of both legs and other injuries.

Minister 'Fairly Good' Rev. Goshorn, who also was admitted to the hospital, was suffering from cuts and bruises about the head and body. He was listed in "fairly good" condition.

Davis, a native of Patterson Creek, attended Patterson Creek elementary school and graduated from Fort Ashby High School.

Shortly after completing his education he entered the Army and served in Korea for some time. He was unemployed.

Survivors include his mother, Mrs. Marie Davis Baldwin, Patterson Creek and a sister, Miss Lou Davis, Washington.

Survivors of the crash were brought to Cumberland in the Fort Ashby Volunteer Fire Company ambulance, driven by Glen Judy.

Hit-Run Victim Funeral Tuesday

A funeral service for Raymond Peter Alkire, 79, of Wiley Ford, W. Va., who was killed Thursday night by a hit-run driver on River Avenue here, will be conducted tomorrow at 9 a. m. in the Scarpell Funeral Home.

Rev. Adam Grim, pastor of Grace Methodist Church, will officiate and burial will be in the Alkire estate cemetery.

Mr. Alkire is survived by three sons, Patrick E. Alkire, Steubenville, Ohio; Benjamin G. and John F. Alkire, Wiley Ford, and two daughters, Mrs. Mary See, Baltimore, and Mrs. Iva L. Malesky, Steubenville.

State, county and city officials are still investigating the accident and last night had reported no developments.

Cumberland police said they are "running down all leads" in an attempt to locate the driver of the vehicle.

Emory University To Honor Founding

Washington district alumni of Emory University have been invited to the university's 17th birthday celebration at 7 p. m. today at the Burlington Hotel, Washington.

Dr. Goodrich C. White, president of the University, will be the principal dinner speaker, Captain M. K. Cureton, USN, of Washington, head of the alumni association, announces.

The Washington district of the alumni group embraces Maryland.

Here During Lent Beginning Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. and continuing each Wednesday during Lent, Rev. Gerald Kennedy, OMI, professor of Scripture at Catholic University, Washington, will preach at St. Patrick's Catholic Church.

Auto Crash Kills One

Maynard Lee Davis, about 22, of Patterson Creek Road, was killed almost instantly last night when his car collided with another on State Route 28 in Short Gap, W. Va., near Miller's Service Station. Davis, who was driving south, attempted to make a turn off the highway and was struck nearly head-on by another car traveling toward Cumberland. Two occupants of the second vehicle were reported in critical condition at Memorial Hospital from injuries suffered in the two-car crash.

Amateur Radio Operators Plan Disaster Net

Walter S. Gatrell, RFD2, has been selected to set up an organization of Allegheny County amateur radio operators prepared to furnish organized emergency communications in time of disaster, according to F. E. Handy, communications manager of the American Radio Relay League.

Gatrell, as emergency coordinator, will band together amateur radio operators of Cumberland to provide emergency radio communications by hams in the event of natural disasters or other emergencies.

He will call local meetings of radio hams, establish operating procedures and arrange drill periods when the operators' personal stations can be mobilized under emergency conditions.

The organization will work with the American Red Cross and other agencies which will swing into action in cases of emergencies.

Amateur radio operators, Handy said, have often been the only agency available in times of emergency, since they can use self-powered transmitters when all normal communications are disrupted.

He added that planning and organization is needed for such emergency jobs, since hams outside the disaster area must be prepared to relay the emergency traffic.

The local emergency radio net will be affiliated with the American Radio Relay League, the national association of radio amateurs.

Fisherman Fined

Bennie F. Kidwell, Potomac Park, was fined $10 and costs Saturday in Trial Magistrate's Court on a charge of using an illegal fishing rig.

100 Persons Are Employed In February

One hundred persons were placed in jobs last month by the local agency of the Maryland Department of Employment Security, according to Francis A. Kenney, manager.

Kenney said the figure is the same as January. In view of the general economic condition in the area and the reduced number of working hours in the month, the February placements are higher than had been expected.

For the first time since last July, the active registration file of unemployed in the Cumberland office dropped instead of increasing. Kenney said the active file for last month amounted to 4,296 persons, a decline of 60 from previous months.

The decrease in the active file, Kenney explained, is not due to any significant re-employment of various workers here, and may be accounted for entirely by claims exhausted during the month.

The local agency's report stated the labor market picture is still dominated by the reduction in employment in the local textile manufacturing plant and to a lesser extent, by lay-offs in tire manufacturing and railroading.

As previously reported, paper manufacturing employment has shown no retrenchment and is not expected to do so. Construction employment, Kenney said, which is expected to pick up with the advent of suitable weather, will provide many employment opportunities for building trades workers.

Meeting Planned

A public meeting will be held today at 7:30 p. m. in the hall adjoining the "Glad Tidings Tabernacle" Assembly of God Church on Valley Road. The meeting is planned to give the public a chance to inspect the new church building. Rev. Elva Brotemarkle said.

Five Are Hurt In Route 51 Headon Crash

Five persons were injured, three of them seriously, when two cars collided head-on early yesterday morning at Blue Springs, on Oldtown Road.

Most seriously injured was Harold D. Scindiver, 36, of 126 South Mechanic Street, driver of one of the cars. He was admitted to Memorial Hospital in an unconscious condition, suffering from head and facial injuries.

He regained consciousness late yesterday morning and was listed as "fair" last night.

Two passengers riding with him were admitted to the hospital and both were in "good" condition early last night. They were listed by Maryland State Police as:

Condition Is Good

Mrs. Evelyn McIntosh, 39, of 126 South Mechanic Street, who suffered several fractured ribs, abrasions of the body and a possible fractured left arm in the crash.

Harold G. Bonner, 28, of RD 1, Hyndman, Pa., riding with Scindiver, suffered lacerations of the body and face and a possible broken leg.

Two occupants of the other car were treated in Memorial Hospital and released. They are:

Earl Lee Cooper, 19, of RD 2, Cumberland, the driver. His injuries included a possible fracture of the left arm.

Brother Is Injured

James W. Cooper, his 14-year-old brother, suffered a laceration of the scalp and minor abrasions of the body.

Maryland State Police said the accident occurred at 12:15 a. m. as the car Cooper was driving south on Oldtown Road was hit head-on as the car driven north at "a high rate of speed" by Scindiver, crossed the right center of the road.

Trooper R. D. Wolford and Trooper First Class John F. Brown, who investigated, listed the cause of the accident as excessive speed.

Five Deputy Fire Marshals Named For Two Counties

Will Serve As State Inspectors

Five special deputy fire marshals have been appointed for Allegheny and Garrett counties by Charles S. Jackson, state fire marshal.

They are Joseph Stuckey of Corriganville, Harry DeHaven of Baltimore Pike, Woodrow Layman of Frostburg, Cromwell C. Zembower, LaVale, and John Prichard of Grantsville. All are volunteer firemen.

The new deputies have been notified of their appointments by letter from Jackson.

Special deputies have authority to inspect public buildings for signs of fire or panic hazards.

Offices Long Vacant

Their findings are reported to the state fire marshal for action, if any seems justified. The deputies have no power of arrest or enforcement.

Appointment of the four deputies for Allegheny County and one for Garrett marks the first time in several years that either county has had fire marshals.

The state marshal's office recently began to refill such vacancies, which carry no salary, in all Maryland counties. The addition of marshals in Allegheny and Garrett completes the list.

Veteran Firefighters

Stuckey is captain and treasurer of Corriganville Volunteer Fire Company, and is a past president of the Allegheny-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association.

K. Of C. Is Urged To Help Combat Obscene Books

Fourth Degree Hears Talk By Rev. Lyness

Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus members were urged yesterday by Rev. John U. Lyness, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic Church, to set up a program to combat the sale and distribution of obscene literature and undesirable comic books.

Father Lyness spoke at the annual Communion breakfast of Chief Justice Taney Assembly, Fourth Degree K of C in the social center of SS. Peter and Paul School.

The speaker told his audience that every piece of obscene literature and so-called comic book should be removed from every news stand. In almost every case of juvenile delinquency, he pointed out, ideas of these wayward youngsters emanated from reading this type of literature.

The speaker expressed the hope that the organization would inaugurate a program which would encourage news stands to cooperate by promoting the sale of clean, constructive and adventuresome literature and comic books, and refrain from selling those that are obscene and undesirable.

There are many desirable publications available, he claimed, which would better serve the youth and help them to develop into ultimately finer citizens.

Father Lyness was introduced to the 110 Fourth Degree Knights and 35 candidates present by Peter J. Carpentieri, toastmaster. The candidates are part of a group to be initiated into the Fourth Degree on May 16.

The address of welcome was delivered by Arthur F. Young, faithful navigator. Rev. Kenan Crowley, OFM Cap., assistant pastor of SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church, also spoke briefly and commended the Knights on their exemplification of Catholic faith by receiving Holy Communion in a body yesterday, the first Sunday in Lent.

His name is inscribed on the sixth annual Chalice which was presented to Father Lyness, who accepted on behalf of Rev. W. Howard Bishop, superior general of the Order of Glen-Mary Missionaries, Glendale, Ohio.

Members of Cumberland Aerie 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles, gathered yesterday to pay tribute to 33 members who have answered the final roll call, were urged to continue and perpetuate the best of their fellow members offered toward America's plan to "bring peace and dignity to man."

In a memorial address delivered before some 300 members of the Aerie, Thomas B. Finan, city attorney, paid tribute to the service the lodge has offered to Cumberland during the past 56 years.

Terming the order a "bastion of democracy," he pointed out that over 155,000 Eagles served in the Armed Forces during World War II and that 16 Cumberland Eagles gave up their lives in the struggle.

Praises Contributions

Finan praised the contributions of the order, from the Cumberland Aerie's cooperation toward the Red Cross blood bank program to such national actions as the sponsorship of the Social Security Law and the institution of Mothers Day.

"It was given to them," Finan said in memorializing the 33 Eagles who have died during the past year, "to live, worship and love in a free country with free men" and that all members may achieve greatness with them when their efforts are done through a large fraternal organization such as the Eagles.

Red carnations were worn by all members who attended the impressive service held yesterday at 2 p. m. in the FOE home here.

Rabbi Joseph Schimelman, spiritual director of Beth Jacob Congregation, offered the memorial prayer, and the Young Men's Quartet of Allegheny High School sang "Going Home."

One Man Killed, Two Injured In 2-Car Crash At Short Gap

Maynard Davis Dies Instantly As Cars Collide

Gilbert Rannells Reported Serious At Local Hospital

One man was killed and two others were badly injured in a two-car collision near Short Gap, W. Va., on State Route 28 last night about 9 o'clock.

Dead was Maynard Lee Davis, 22, of Patterson Creek. Injured and hospitalized at Memorial Hospital in Cumberland were: Rev. Robert D. Goshorn, 26, of Springfield, W. Va. and Gilbert Rannells, 50, also of Springfield.

Cpl. F. H. Tribett, Keyser detachment of the West Virginia State Police, said Davis apparently was killed almost instantly when his car, which was traveling south toward Short Gap, skidded broadside into the other vehicle, apparently driven by Rev. Goshorn and headed toward Cumberland.

Tribett said the mishap occurred in front of the George Merritt residence about half a mile on the Cumberland side of Short Gap as the cars traveled along a winding stretch of road.

Thrown Down Embankment The Goshorn automobile plowed into the right side of Davis' car and the two vehicles came to a stop on the east side of the road near a six-foot embankment in front of the Merritt home.

Davis, who was driving alone, was thrown clear of the crash by the impact and was found dead at the bottom of the embankment. Tribett said tire tracks leading to the scene of the accident indicated Davis apparently lost control of his car as he rounded a curve in the roadway, then swung into the opposite lane of traffic, back to the right side again, and then skidded sideways into the approaching Goshorn car and was struck full in the right side.

The Goshorn vehicle front was imbedded deep into the Davis car with the front wheel tires on the other car's running board. Memorial Hospital attaches said Rannells, a Springfield carpenter, was in very serious condition last night with severe lacerations of the head and possible fractures of both legs and other injuries.

Minister 'Fairly Good' Rev. Goshorn, who also was admitted to the hospital, was suffering from cuts and bruises about the head and body. He was listed in "fairly good" condition.

Davis, a native of Patterson Creek, attended Patterson Creek elementary school and graduated from Fort Ashby High School.

Shortly after completing his education he entered the Army and served in Korea for some time. He was unemployed.

Survivors include his mother, Mrs. Marie Davis Baldwin, Patterson Creek and a sister, Miss Lou Davis, Washington.

Survivors of the crash were brought to Cumberland in the Fort Ashby Volunteer Fire Company ambulance, driven by Glen Judy.

Auto Crash Kills One Maynard Lee Davis, about 22, of Patterson Creek Road, was killed almost instantly last night when his car collided with another on State Route 28 in Short Gap, W. Va., near Miller's Service Station. Davis, who was driving south, attempted to make a turn off the highway and was struck nearly headon by another car traveling toward Cumberland. Two occupants of the second vehicle were reported in critical condition at Memorial Hospital from injuries suffered in the two-car crash.

Amateur Radio Operators Plan Disaster Net

Walter S. Gatrell, RFD2, has been selected to set up an organization of Allegany County amateur radio operators prepared to furnish organized emergency communications in time of disaster, according to F. E. Handy, communications manager of the American Radio Relay League.

Gatrell, as emergency coordinator, will band together amateur radio operators of Cumberland to provide emergency radio communications by means in the event of natural disasters or other emergencies.

He will call local meetings of radio hams, establish operating procedures and arrange drill periods when the operators' personal stations can be mobilized under emergency conditions.

The organization will work with the American Red Cross and other agencies which will swing into action in cases of emergencies.

Amateur radio operators, Handy said, have often been the only agency available in times of emergency, since they can use self-powered transmitters when all normal communications are disrupted.

He added that planning and organization is needed for such emergency jobs, since hams outside the disaster area must be prepared to relay the emergency traffic.

The local emergency radio net will be affiliated with the American Radio Relay League, the national association of radio amateurs.

Today's Sermonette

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached yesterday at First Methodist Church in Frostburg by the pastor, Rev. John Bayley Jones. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

Resurrection

By REV. JOHN BAYLEY JONES

It is reported that Auguste Comte once told Thomas Carlyle he was starting a new religion called Positivism. To which Carlyle replied, "Very well, all you need to do is speak as never man spoke, live as never man lived, be crucified, rise again, and get the world to believe you are still alive." This conversation is quite pertinent as our thoughts are concentrated at this season of the year on One who did just that, even Jesus.

Central in our thinking is the strange power of this Man and his cross. He transformed a symbol of punishment and shame into one of power and salvation. Here the love of God overcame the hatred of man and made him see the need of forgiveness from sin. Here the worst that men could do to the best God had to offer failed to defeat His eternal purpose — the redemption of His highest creation.

Jesus was challenged to come down from the cross in order to demonstrate His power. He chose to endure the cross to show His compassion for mankind. In the ultimate choice He could save Himself and others. The acorn cannot save itself and become a tree; a soldier cannot save himself and save his country; a physician cannot save himself and his patient. The divine paradox still holds: "Who would have his

One hundred persons were placed in jobs last month by the local agency of the Maryland Department of Employment Security, according to Francis A. Kenney, manager.

Kenney said the figure is the same as January. In view of the general economic condition in the area and the reduced number of working hours in the month, the February placements are higher than had been expected.

For the first time since last July, the active registration file of unemployed in the Cumberland office dropped instead of increasing. Kenney said the active file for last month amounted to 4,296 persons, a decline of 60 from previous months.

The decrease in the active file, Kenney explained, is not due to any significant re-employment of various workers here, and may be accounted for entirely by claims exhausted during the month.

The local agency's report stated the labor market picture is still dominated by the reduction in employment in the local textile manufacturing plant and to a lesser extent, by lay-offs in tire manufacturing and railroad.

As previously reported, paper manufacturing employment has shown no retrenchment and is not expected to do so. Construction employment, Kenney said, which is expected to pick up with the advent of suitable weather, will provide many employment opportunities for building trades workers.

Meeting Planned

A public meeting will be held today at 7:30 p. m. in the hall adjoining the "Glad Tidings Tabernacle" Assembly of God Church on Valley Road. The meeting is planned to give the public a chance to inspect the new church building, Rev. Elva Brotemarkle said.

Five persons were injured, three of them seriously, when two cars collided headon early yesterday morning at Blue Springs, on Oldtown Road.

Most seriously injured was Harold D. Sencindiver, 36, of 126 South Mechanic Street, driver of one of the cars. He was admitted to Memorial Hospital in an unconscious condition, suffering from head and facial injuries.

He regained consciousness late yesterday morning and was listed as "fair" last night.

Two passengers riding with him were admitted to the hospital and both were in "good" condition early last night. They were listed by Maryland State Police as:

Condition Is Good

Harold G. Bonner, 28, of RD 1, Hyndman, Pa., riding with Sencindiver, suffered lacerations of the body and face and a possible broken leg.

Two occupants of the other car were treated in Memorial Hospital and released. They are:

Brother Is Injured

James W. Cooper, his 14-year-old brother, suffered a laceration of the scalp and minor abrasions of the body.

Maryland State Police said the accident occurred at 12:15 a. m. as the car Cooper was driving south on Oldtown Road was hit headon as the car driven north at "a high rate of speed" by Sencindiver, crossed the right center of the road.

Trooper R. D. Wolford and Trooper First Class John F. Brown, who investigated, listed the cause of the accident as excessive speed.

Five Deputy Fire Marshals Named For Two Counties

Will Serve As State Inspectors

Five special deputy fire marshals have been appointed for Allegany and Garrett counties by Charles S. Jackson, state fire marshal.

They are Joseph Stuckey of Corriantville, Harry DeHaven of Baltimore Pike, Woodrow Layman of Frostburg, Cromwell C. Zembower, LaVale, and John Prichard of Grantsville. All are volunteer firemen.

The new deputies have been notified of their appointments by letter from Jackson.

Special deputies have authority to inspect public buildings for signs of fire or panic hazards.

Offices Long Vacant

Their findings are reported to the state fire marshal for action, if any seems justified. The deputies have no power of arrest or enforcement.

Appointment of the four deputies for Allegany County and one for Garrett marks the first time in several years that either county has had fire marshals.

The state marshal's office recently began to refill such vacancies, which carry no salary, in all Maryland counties. The addition of marshals in Allegany and Garrett completes the list.
